P.R.R. JOINS IN RAIL TERMS

Pact Will Be Submitted to Commerce Commission; Truce Obstacles Removed

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor.

The four railroad giants of the eastern trunk line territory have come to terms.

After months of negotiations, the presidents of the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio railroads, at a meeting in New York today, agreed to recommend a definite four-system merger plan to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The details of the plan have not been made public, but it is understood that the powers in the rail field have overcome points of disagreement which, a few months ago, seemed to be insurmountable.

WHITE HOUSE PRESSURE

A general plan, leaving these disputed points unsolved, was announced last December, following insistence from the White House that the railroads come to terms.

The obstacles to the completion of a general rail merger plan have been the Pennsylvania's insistence on having trackage rights over portions of the Nickel Plate lines along Lake Erie. The Pennsylvania's dominant position in New England, through its control of the New Haven, also was objectionable to the other carriers.

OPPOSED TO I. C. C. PLAN

The railroad four-system plan is opposed to the Interstate Commerce Commission's five-system plan. The fifth system would be built around the Wabash and the Seaboard Air Line and would include the proposed Taplin Great Lakes to Atlantic Seaboard trunk line to be built through Pittsburgh with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia as a nucleus. The railroads propose to block the plan for this system by dividing control of the individual lines.

Rail Agreement Cheerful News to Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—The stock market was propped at times today by constructive developments in the long-mooted consolidation of the eastern trunkline railroads, but active selling continued to sweep through the market, and prices fluctuated erratically.

The bond market was irregular, but was firmer in spots, and the London and Paris markets closed with a steady tone.

Wall Street recognized that final agreement among the heads of the four eastern trunkline systems as only a step toward actually bringing the proposed absorption to completion, but perhaps the most important step.

Crowd of 40,000 Sees Opener of Series

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service.

SPORTSMAN PARK, ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—The roar of more than 40,000 voices accompanied the crash of the bat against the ball here this afternoon, in the 1931 World Series inaugural.

It was Connie Mack's mangling marvels versus Cholly Street's spectacular satellites, with the odds lengthened to 2 to 1 that A's win the series and 7 to 5 they knock the Cards loose from their ambitions in today's foree.

The sky was overcast at noon and the air was cluttered with humidity. The weather fellow, who has promised sunshine and condition-filled zephyrs, wasn't so sure at 12 o'clock that rain wouldn't be an unwelcome tourist.

The bleachers, with seats retailing at $1, opened at 9 a. m. and the $3 standing room tickets were put on sale at the same time. The "sun parlor" was crammed to capacity within 30 minutes, and the lads and lasses parked there were entertained until 11:30 by a snappy orchestra.

The cards, glittering in freshly-laundered uniforms, took the field for swatting practice at 11:30 and were given a royal greeting. Pitcher Paul Derringer took his turn at bat.

The Cardinals introduced a novelty in batting practice by sending Bill Walker, star southpaw of the Giants, to the slab. Walker's home is in the vicinity

POLICEMAN SHOOTS BURGLAR TRAPPED IN EAST END HOME

FIRES IN BELIEF ROBBER HOLDS WEAPON

Pan Carried by Prowler Draws Bullet of Officer; Wounded Man Near Death

A Negro burglar trapped in a pantry on the second floor of an apartment house at 708 North Negley avenue was shot probably fatally early this morning by the crew of a police radio scout car who sought to arrest him.

The shooting occurred in the apartment of Dr. H. M. Snitzer. The suspect, partially identified as Carnell Burnett, aged about 20, is in a critical condition in the Pittsburgh Hospital. He is said to have worked until a month ago as a car washer at the Master Oil Company. With roving fellow-employes making partial identification.

The prowler was shot by Patrolman Dan McGreevy, who said he fired when he saw an object flash in the burglar's hands. Investigation proved that the burglar was carrying a saucepan picked up in the pantry. The bullet passed through the pan and entered the man's abdomen.

SPEED TO SCENE

During the shooting Dr. Snitzer, his wife, their infant son Albert and a maid were in an adjoining room. With Officer McGreevy when he cornered the burglar in the pantry were Precinct Detectives Charles Freeborn and William Long.

A. Listenes who with his wife and two daughters, Dorothy 11, and Bella 13, resides on the first floor was awakened by a noise in his apartment. He notified police and McGreevy and John Socher arrived in a radio scout car. Detectives Freeborn and Long and Patrolmen George Stokes and Maurice Marks arrived in another machine from the East End Station. The officers immediately surrounded the house.

ESCAPE BALKED

Meanwhile the prowler had gone to the second floor apartment of Dr. Snitzer, where he was confronted by the physician in a hallway. The prowler hurried to a rear window and was climbing out onto a porch roof when Patrolman Socher caught sight of him. The patrolman ordered him back into the house, knowing that McGreevy and the detectives had entered.

The prowler is thought to have picked up the pan in the pantry to defend himself. Light shining on the bright pan led McGreevy to believe the prowler was armed. At the hospital the wounded suspect refused to reveal his identity. In his clothing were found a jimmy, a screw driver and a flashlight, the lens dimmed with a handkerchief.

The forced descent indicated apparent failure of Kingsford-Smith's attempt to fly the 11,000 miles from Australia to England in less than 8 days, 22 hours and 25 minutes, the record. He would have had to reach London some time today to beat the record.

The children witnessed the shooting. They climbed through a window of the sedan and wandered along a country road until the motorist drove up. At police headquarters the boys sobbed:

"Papa shooting mamma."

A STOCK EXCHANGE seat sold yesterday for $156,000, a drop of nearly $500,000 from the highest price. He who sold it will regret it, though prices may go lower, for a ban on short selling is coming and probably federal action that will make the ban real.

That would discourage brokers unable to realize that honest buying is better than dishonest short selling, with the broker lending his customer's stock to gamblers on the short side, and directly injuring his customer's interest.

ATTORNEY LEAPS TO DEATH AT MEADVILLE

Mt. Lebanon Lawyer Found Dead in Rear of Hotel; No Known Cause for Act

His face covered with a small towel and clad only in his underwear, the body of Attorney John H. McCloskey, 40, of Rocklyn place, Mt. Lebanon, was found early today in a paved court in the rear of a Meadville hotel. Deputy coroners investigating the death declared that the man had leaped from his room on the fourth floor of the hotel.

The death was listed as a suicide.

News of the attorney's death was kept from his wife, Mrs. Anna R. McCloskey, who is ill in her home. In addition to his wife he leaves two sons by a former marriage. No reason could be advanced for the plunge. In clothing of the victim was a school tax statement for property in Meadville, amounting to $800 and due today.

Attorney McCloskey was a native of Meadville. He was the son of the late J. Newton McCloskey, who owned considerable property in Meadville. Upon his father's death the property was left to the Pittsburgh attorney, who made monthly visits to Meadville to collect rents and to manage the estate.

The visits to Meadville were made the last of each month, it was said.

The deputy coroner stated that he believed that McCloskey had placed the towel about his eyes to shield from himself the view as he plunged through the window. Attorney McCloskey was well known in Pittsburgh and formerly had offices in the Berger Building.

SINGER'S SUIT AGAINST KAHN DISMISSED

Court Holds 'Nightingale' Failed to Establish Case In Action for $500,000

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The $500,000 suit brought against Otto H. Kahn, banker, by Madame Lydia Lindgren, "Swedish nightingale," was dismissed today by Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Druhan, who held that the plaintiff had failed to establish a prima facie case.

The blonde prima donna yesterday told a jury, between bursts of weeping, that Kahn had given her a $150,000 trust fund, had promised here a $3,000 annual income and had agreed to remember her in his will.

The gray-haired financier, philanthropist and music patron took the stand long enough to identify himself. Not once did he look at the woman who was suing him.

The singer alleged Kahn had given her the trust fund and promised her the income and a bequest in his will. Because, he told her, he realized "all the trouble he had caused me and wanted to redeem himself," after she had withdrawn a slander suit against Mme. Julia Claussen, operatic singer.

KANE DROWNING CASE AWAITS GRAND JURY

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

HAMPTON, Va., Oct. 1.—The case of Prof. Elisha Kent Kane, charged with drowning his pretty wife, today was put on the legal shelf until it is presented to the October grand jury in a week or so.

The members of the Kane family who have rallied to the support of the teacher of romance languages at the University of Tennessee began packing their bags to return to their Pennsylvania homes until the time of the trial late this month in the event the grand jury returns an indictment.

KANE PLANS VAGUE

Prof. Kane said today he had not decided whether he would go to Kane, Pa., with his aged father, Dr. Evan O'Neil Kane, and his cousin, E. Kent Kane, of Bradford, Pa., who is one of his attorneys. He said:

"I may go to Knoxville and take up my classes at the University until such time as my innocence is established. I also plan to forget the case for the time being and put the finishing touches upon my volume."

The Professor was referring to his work of translating a piece of Spanish poetic literature which he is entitling "The Book of Beautiful Love."

Commenting upon the action of Magistrate Joseph Dixon in holding him for action by the grand jury, Prof. Kane said:

"It wasn't a surprise. I expected as much, despite the obvious weakness of the evidence given by the prosecution witnesses."

MRS. GRAHAM ILL

As a result of her collapse on the witness stand yesterday at the Kane preliminary hearing, Mrs. W. C. Graham, mother of the drowned woman, suffered a relapse and was again under medical treatment for a nervous breakdown.

The scene in court when Mrs. Graham sobbed her story from the stand was termed by veteran lawyers as one of the most dramatic incidents in Virginia court history.

GRILLING LINK SECOND VICTIM WITH WIFE

EXCLUSIVE

(Editor's Note—The International News Service herewith presents exclusively the story told to Chief of Police C. J. Luke in Daytona Beach, Fla., "Dr." L. D. Ritchie, 51, and his son, William, 23, who were arrested there yesterday following announcement by the authorities of Norwalk, Conn., that the two were wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of Benjamin P. Collings on his yacht Penguin.

Ritchie and his son, the Norwalk authorities announced were also wanted for questioning in connection with the death of William Smith, of South Norwalk, whose body was washed up Tuesday. Ritchie and his son were traced to Daytona Beach by the International News Service.)

By JAMES GORDON SIBLEY
International News Service.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Oct. 1.—Questioned at length for hours in police headquarters here, Dr. Leslie D. Mayo Ritchie, 51, a veterinarian, stoutly maintained today that he knew nothing whatever about the murder of Benjamin P. Collings, aboard his yacht Penguin in Long Island Sound the night of September 10.

ADMITS KNOWING VICTIM

Both men, taken into custody here late yesterday by Chief of Police C. J. Luke, were being held today for word from Connecticut and New York authorities.

Both Ritchie and his son admitted knowing William Smith, garage worker, of South Norwalk, whose body was washed up on the beach last Tuesday. Both denied, however, any knowledge of how he had met his death.

The elder Ritchie was taken into custody first. He was found in a bungalow located in a palm grove in the outskirts of Daytona. William was brought to the police station about half an hour later by the veterinarian's wife. Chief Luke had led them to believe that he wished to question the pair about a stolen automobile.

After Ritchie admitted he was a veterinarean and addicted to dope, his questioner asked him where he was on the night of September 9.

TAKEN OFF GUARD

This question seemed to take the prisoner completely off his guard and his eyelids fluttered in a nervous manner. His confusion was evident to myself and Chief Luke, who was the only other person in the room.

"Where was I? Why, at home I guess. I really don't remember, if you want me to tell you the truth about it. If you don't why then—"

He left the sentence unfinished, ending up on a challenging note as though he realized he was rambling.

"Was your wife there?"

"Yes, I guess so. I suppose she was."

READ OF YACHT

Ritchie said Smith, whom he described as an automobile mechanic, lived with him for two or three days after their return to Westport, Conn., last year.

"When is the last time you saw him?"

"I haven't seen him since he left my house last April. My wife asked him to leave."

"Smith and your wife were pretty good friends, weren't they?"

"Well, yes; they were."

"Did you ever hear of a yacht called the Penguin?"

"Yes, I read about it in the paper."

"Did you ever see the yacht?"

"No, I never did."

BECOMES WRATHFUL

"Do you know what happened on the Penguin on the night of September 9?"

Here the veterinarian's face began to take on a wrathful expression, and he sputtered:

"So that's what I'm thrown in jail for. You think I'm a murderer."

"You deny that you know anything about the murder of Collings?"

"Yes. Of course I deny it."

He answered the last question in a loud and belligerent tone.

William Richie, the son, said that on the night of September 9 he was playing poker and that on September 10 he was in the Norwalk Police Station "for being a guy up." Asked why, he said:

"He broke my dad's home up. He took my mother away—or caused her to leave."

THE WELCOME HOME IN DOWNTOWN ST. LOUIS FOR THE CARDINALS AS THEY ARRIVED FOR THE FIRST SERIES GAME!

THOMAS LIPTON SERIOUSLY ILL

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Sir Thomas Lipton, British sportsman, was reported today to be suffering from the effects of a severe chill, and his condition was causing grave anxiety.

He caught cold about 10 days ago while motoring and has been unable to throw it off. At present, his secretary said, the 80-year-old yachtsman is "very ill." The secretary declared:

"He will be in no condition to sail for New York on Saturday, as he intended. As a matter of fact, the passage has been canceled."

Women's Styles Change Design Of Furniture

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—The trend of styles in furniture is dominated by the styles of women's clothing, Kenneth Foster, of the faculty of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, said in addressing a group of women yesterday.

He said:

"The massive chairs of the later English periods were the result of the voluminous skirts and heavy fabrics worn by the women of that era. Chairs had to be solid and roomy to accommodate the fashions of the day."

He added that he believed the simply modernistic furniture of the present, is entirely in keeping with the efficiency of the "mechanical age."

SCIENTISTS TIRED OF STAID WALTZ

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Grave scientists, many of whose ages exceed the Biblical plan, forsook their abstraction to dance to modern music until the wee hours of today.

They were the members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, which concluded its centenary meeting with a reception and ball. During the past week they have discussed such abstruse subjects as the evolution of the universe and the origin of mankind.

Sir Oliver Lodge, nothwithstanding his 80 years, danced the fox trot with Miss Betty Allanson and thereafter had a wide choice of partners, of which he availed himself freely. Prof. d'Arcy Thompson, who is 71, soon tired of the staid waltz and called for something livelier. He wore down one young partner in a succession of polkas and sought another with triumph. Several others were going strong when the ball was over.

Objections of militarists to permitting military planes from the Hermes being used in the survey were removed today and three of the British military aircraft made short survey flights up and down the Yangtse River.

Professor Backs Newspaper English

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—A college professor had some good words to say today about the "all but impeccable" English appearing nowadays in American newspapers.

Dr. Allen Sinclair Will, head of the department of journalism at Rutgers University, said:

"The English used at the present time in the best newspapers is not inferior to that which may be seen in current literature finding acceptance from a large body of readers.

"Newspapers do not use or wish to use Victorian English. Their preference is for the vigorous American speech current among cultivated people."

CITY WON'T BAN WINE BRICKS

The wine brick trade will meet no opposition from city authorities, Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh said today. A brick is being analyzed by City Chemist L. Totten for alcoholic content, if any. Walsh said:

"Whether the city chemist finds the brick contains alcohol, it is purely up to the prohibition officers to take action on the sale."

Totten said the question was purely a "dry" question, explaining:

"The city has no interest other than to find whether the brick contains alcohol."

It was reported that the brick concessionaires here include two political "higher ups" and a former boxer.

JANE-ELLEN BALL

Miss Ball, who as "Mrs. Pittsburgh," today on KDKA dramatized for the Retail Merchants' Association the results of the market census of Greater Pittsburgh made by R. L. Polk & Co.

FAMILY CENSUS FACTS GIVEN

PLAN NATIONAL STUDY

Plans for the proposed national survey, announced to the Pittsburgh merchants, contemplate a study, similar to that conducted in Pittsburgh, of the trading areas of every city in the United States with a population exceeding 25,000.

Completed and the results tabulated, such a gigantic card-indexing will determine accurately for the first time the buying power, the buying habits and the consuming potentialities of more than 80 per cent of the country's population.

Interviews reflecting the statements of women heads of 218,980 family groups in the district—persons maintaining a household being considered a family—established that, despite its reputation as a "melting pot" of many foreign born, Greater Pittsburgh is a truly typical American city with 77.70 per cent of its population native born, as contrasted with 76.18 per cent in the 14 cities usually cited as "typically American."

Moreover, according to the Polk report, all of the basic industries of the country were found to be fairly represented in Pittsburgh.

EMPLOYMENT SIGNIFICANT

What may make the Pittsburgh study nationally significant in consideration of the current unemployment problem and discussion of the outlook for business recovery, the Pittsburgh merchants were told, is that it was found that an average of 1.12 persons in each family group are employed, that nearly 53 per cent —the highest percentage in Pittsburgh's history—have money in the bank and that 89 per cent of the families are covered by insurance with an average of $4,692 per family, twice as much as the coverage for the average family throughout the country.

Further, it was found, according to the Polk report, that in addition to the 68 per cent of the families who are under no installment obligations now, a very considerable proportion of the remaining 32 per cent have their installments more than half paid.

Linked with these facts in the report are the findings that out of every 100 families in the Pittsburgh area approximately 35 have no radios, 44 have no vacuum cleaners, 40 have no electric washers, 64 have no phonographs, 64 have no pianos, and in this so-called "motor age" 65 out of every 100 families still have no automobiles.

CALL CITY POLL HEADS IN VOTE MACHINE QUIZ

Election Judges of First Four Wards to Appear; Harris Invites Witnesses

The Senate committee investigating the voting machine situation in Allegheny County met this afternoon to hear judges of elections of the first four wards of Pittsburgh, where voting machines were used in the primaries.

The committee will also meet at 8 p. m. in City Hall, McKeesport, to hear the judges of elections there and in Duquesne.

OFFICIALS WARNED

Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the committee, announced the meetings and requested those election officials who could testify to appear, rather than have subpenas issued for them. Meetings will be held Friday afternoon in the City-County Building, and in the City Hall of Clairton, Friday night, he added.

ASKS TEST COSTS

Secretary of the Commonwealth R. J. Beamish has sent a letter to Attorney Ella Graubart, 1420 Park Building, Pittsburgh, informing her that her requested re-examination of voting machines would not be made until she forwarded $450 costs, according to a wire from Harrisburg.

Miss Graubart said she has not received the letter and that when she does she will take it up with members of the Citizens' Voting Machine Committee of Allegheny County, for whom she is acting. The voting machine law specifies the payment of $450 for a re-examination.

The Senate committee investigating the performance of voting machines in the county, yesterday heard testimony from officials, including District Attorney Andrew T. Park, his assistant, Roy T. Clunk, Stanley S. Shoup, mechanical engineer representing Col. C. C. McGovern; Hiram Hirsh, counsel for the Poole Engineering Company; Senator John Howell of Lackawanna County, and Michael McDermitt, county detective.

INEXPERIENCE BLAMED

The committee agreed that District Attorney Park's emergency move in indicting Edward I. Funk, machine repairman, was the thing to do, and commended him for his speedy action, although, as Park explained, a check of evidence revealed that Funk should be released.

Clunk, Shoup and Park asserted they found no evidence of tampering, and those called declared it was their opinion the machines were successful, except that the inexperience and ignorance of the election boards and electors were mainly responsible where the machines failed to function properly.

Senator Howell, in reporting that the Jamestown automatic machines in Lackawanna County performed well, except for the inexperienced voters, was asked by Senator Harris if he would prefer going back to the ballot. He answered:

"In my opinion, I don't think we should go back to the ballot."

HOWELL QUESTIONS PARK

Senator Howell asked District Attorney Park if he believed the machine is "any straighter than the arm that operates it." Park answered that he could not as yet form any definite opinion as to this.

Hirsh testified he had let out a workman named Funk, and explained the circumstances leading to his action. Detective Michael McDermitt, who went to Baltimore to take Funk into custody, explained that he got little information from Funk other than that he was still working for the Poole Engineering Company, and that Funk maintained his innocence.

Aimee Omits 'Obey' From Vows

By AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON

High Priestess of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles.

Chapter IV

Only one newspaper was apprised in advance of my elopement with David Hutton, but the other Los Angeles papers got wind of it during the morning from Yuma. Reporters and cameramen came in hordes to my home adjoining the temple.

I finally gathered them all in the house at one time and Dave and I were interviewed and photographed until I thought it never would end. But the reporters never seemed to run out of questions and the photographers had an endless supply of plates for their cameras.

When night came, I had to ask for a respite from interviews while I listened on the radio to the evening sermon at the temple.

FEARS ANNOUNCEMENT

It was arranged for Dr. Shreve, chairman of the elders, to announce my wedding to the congregation, and I waited with fear and trembling to the reaction.

Will it be all right? Will they make my happiness their happiness? What if they disapprove? These questions and a hundred more like them ran through my head.

And then Dr. Shreve told them of my marriage.

There was a moment of deathly silence. They were stunned—simply stunned. My heart sank. I gripped Dave's hand tightly.

And then someone clapped his hands. Then another. A ripple of applause broke out. It became a mighty roar, and I knew everything was all right.

"OBEY" LEFT OUT

There was some comment afterward because it was noticed that there weren't any "obeys" in my ceremony. However, that was not an oversight. It was intentional.

Dave and I both felt that the word "obey" was not necessary.

My elopement was one of the most dramatic moments in my career. But there were others.

HIGHLIGHTS OF LIFE

As I look back over my life, a strange mixture of joy and sorrow to me and newspaper headlines for the public, seven episodes—dramatic moments—stand out in bold relief.

1—My conversion at the age of 17 on a snow-blown country road in Canada.

2—The death of Robert Semple, my first husband, in China, 20 years ago, and the birth of my first child, Roberta, there.

3—The dedication and opening of my church, Angelus Temple, in Los Angeles.

4—The appearance and lights of Agua Priet, Mexico, after I had escaped from kidnapers in the desert in 1926.

5—My acquittal on a charge of concocting a kidnaping hoax.

6—My airplane elopement and marriage to David L. Hutton at Yuma, Ariz., on September 13, last.

7—My meeting in San Quentin prison with Asa Keyes, now a convict, who as district Attorney of Los Angeles tried to send me to the penitentiary in connection with my kidnaping.

RECALLS CONVERSION

Going back to my acceptance of the gospel, I can see a country road which wound along the five miles from Ingersoll, Canada, to my parents' farmhouse. It was lined with deep snowdrifts and covered with a canopy of twinkling bright stars.

I was a 17-year-old high school girl then, wrapped up in amateur theatricals, but the words of an evangelist, Robert Semple, whom I was to marry and whom I had heard preach but a few days previously, rang like trumpet notes in my ears.

"Repent! Repent!"

The flaming two-edged sword of the word of God had flashed in his upraised hand like lightning.

As I rode in the sleigh, I could stand the torture no longer, and I lifted my hands and cried:

"God, be merciful to me."

Instantly an almost indescribably cleansing and healing light streamed over my soul.

A short time later Mr. Semple and I were married and went to China to preach.

(Tomorrow Aimee will tell how she founded the Angelus Temple and something of how she was kidnaped.)

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

IT'S JUST ONE of those little yarns that happen every w and then. Mr. Jones, owner of a successful printing shop Long Island, decided to sink a portion of his bankroll in a m that was located about 100 miles from New York. He joyed the spot immensely, lolling about during the summer d riding and hunting during the fall. During his frequent sences he placed a caretaker on the farm.

Ezra, the caretaker, decided that it might be a good idea sell eggs. He bought a few hens and found it profitable. So spoke to Mr. Jones about the situation. The latter gentleman also recognized the possibilities and immediately purchased 2,000 additional chickens.

Before a year had passed the g business was yielding some 0 a week profit. Of this sum Jones gave Ezra $100 a week pocketed the rest. He threw his chest and told his friends y proudly of the sideline he had scovered that was giving him 0,000 a year profit.

But alas! The printing business gan to go into the red about six onths ago. One of Jones' biggest accounts moved over to another printer. Old Man Depression was riding high and Jones cided to call in an efficiency pert.

The expert began to cut salaries t and right. He fired plenty of ople. He did everything, in ct, except help the business. d when he was through he ked Mr. Jones if there was anything else he could do. The inter considered the matter for moment and then nodded.

"I have a chicken farm," he serted, "that is now earning ore money than my printing op. Perhaps it isn't being run rrectly and we can squeeze more oney from it. Suppose you run and see Ezra."

So up to the farm went the iciency expert. When he learned at Ezra wasn't keeping any cords, he was horrified.

"What do you call this?" he ared. "Not a record in the place hat do you think Mr. Jones is a fool? From now on you'll keep n account of every egg you sell.

"I want everything put down. And I want Mr. Jones to have a omplete report every week."

Ezra nodded sadly and went to ork on his records. He scratched is head and he pondered. He ndered and he scratched his ead. He worked like the very evil.

Three months later Jones was forced to close up his profitable sideline. Ezra had devoted so much time to his reports that he ad neglected to sell any eggs!

IT'S rather a silly notion, but Ir. Hugh Wedlock, Jr., tells of a cotch lady who lost one eye in an accident. Her husband immediately bought her a Eugenie hat!

SPEAKING of Eugenie hats, as verybody seems to be doing, I must tell you of a little chorine in he Follies who stepped from the stage door the other night wearing one of the silliest bonnets I have ever gazed upon. I like the kid, and I spoke to her.

"Ruthie," I told her, "that hat may be the latest style, but I'd like you to know that it looks terrible on you."

"I know it very well, Mr. Hellinger," she replied. "That's why I wear it."

I looked at her in amazement.

"What's that?" I asked.

She glanced around.

"Certainly," she confided. "You e, you're not the only one who esn't like these Eugenie hats. ractically all men feel the same ay about them.

"I go with a great many men Some time during an evening they re bound to tell me they don't like my hat. I sigh and tell them hat I agree with them—but that I can't afford to buy a new one. So I can a nice man do but e the price of a new hat' ve made a fortune on the enie that. Mr. Hellinger. I pe the style lasts forever!"

I was happy to hear that. I ways had a sneaking notion that he Eugenie style might have some od connected with it somewhere . . .

AND NOW that I've drifted to subject of chorines, I'll never get the honey who asked me t a pair of seats for a Tuesday atinee some years back. The only Tuesday matinee in New York that winter was a performance of one of Shakespeare's plays in modern dress. If I'm not mistaken, the play was "The Taming of the Shrew."

I didn't think the little lady would care much for Shakespeare, but I had no choice. So I left the seats in the box office in my name and told her to enjoy herself.

After the matinee she phoned my office. I asked her how she enjoyed the play and she said it was fair. I attempted to be funny. "Did the author take a bow?" I kidded.

"I don't know," was her amazing retort, "I got there a little late!" . . .

MANIAC RULES ISLAND 4 DAYS

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 1.—(INS.)—A story of four days of terror for a family of six marooned on a tiny island with a powerful madman and with no means for calling assistance had been told today with the committing of the maniac to the State Hospital for the Insane at Taunton.

The madman was Frank Crapo, 45, a farm helper, suddenly gone violently insane and seeking weapons to destroy imaginary enemies. Ralph W. Wood, caretaker, his wife, his son Bertram, and Bertram's wife, Cameron, brother of Ralph, and Mrs. Lauena Wood, mother of Ralph and Cameron, lived in constant fear of their lives.

Finally a fisherman, who pulled up on the island, went to Gay Head Coast Guard station, Martha's Vineyard. Officials there sent a patrol boat with three men. After a struggle, the guardsmen succeeded in chaining Crapo and forcing him aboard their boat.

HEAVY BATTLE NEAR MUKDEN

Patrols of Russian cavalry and armored cars have entered the Manchurian border city of Manchouli, a dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph today stated.

The dispatch from Mukden declared the Soviet invasion of Chinese territory was protested by Chinese residents of Manchouli to the Russian consul there.

RITCHIE ORATOR FOR INSTITUTE

An address by Gov. Albert Cabell Ritchie, of Maryland, will feature the thirty-fifth annual celebration of Founder's Day at Carnegie Institute October 15, the committee in charge announced today. Winning awards in the Thirtieth International Exhibition of Paintings will be announced after the address.

Due to business conditions the annual dinner will not be held.

HERDS WILL BE QUARANTINED

The state's cattle quarantine, which will go into effect in Allegheny County October 15, will protect from tuberculosis the herds here, which already have all been tested. The quarantine will prevent the addition of infected animals, according to Henry R. Eby, county farm agent.

Tuberculosis tests for cattle have been made in Allegheny County since 1927, and a complete test was made early this year. Diseased cattle were slaughtered, and the herds in this vicinity are now believed to be virtually free of the disease.

Man Leaves $10,000 Estate to Widow

An estate worth $10,000 was left by John Wechter, of Sewickley Heights Township, to his wife, Philomena Wechter for life, then to be divided among their four children.

In 1929 Standard Gas and Electric stockholders voted the sale of a million shares of common stock to the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, another of the "Byllesby group," as a means of securing management efficiency, Mitchell said.

Emergency meals, when unexpected guests come, are no trouble to the hostess who knows the Gulden secret of making the usual "last minute" dishes taste deliciously different. KLEENEX

DISPOSABLE TISSUES

SCHOOL days are here—start now to guard against colds and other epidemics.

One protection you can give your child is Kleenex disposable tissues instead of handkerchiefs.

Kleenex tissues are soft, dainty squares to use once and destroy. Compare the cleanly Kleenex way with the old-time handkerchief, which tests show may contain literally millions of germs!

Children particularly need Kleenex, because they are so careless, and because they contract nose and throat infections so readily. Supply your child today with Kleenex . . . teach him to use it once and then destroy.

Children prefer Kleenex

Children prefer Kleenex, once they try it. Made of cellulose, it's softer than any handkerchief. And nearly twice as absorbent—thus preventing irritation. And with Kleenex there's never any trouble over lost or stained handkerchiefs. It costs even less than laundering alone.

Many uses

There's nothing like Kleenex for saving your time and temper a dozen times a day. For wiping spectacles; for applying medicines; for minor bandages; for wiping razor blades . . . these are but a few of the many uses for Kleenex. And don't forget that Kleenex is declared the safest, most efficient way of removing face creams by those experienced in skin care. Its superior absorbency is needed to remove all impurities from the pores. All drug, dry goods and department stores sell Kleenex.

DISEASE GERMS

that thrive in handkerchiefs used during colds include the Pneumococcus, Streptococcus (pus germ), staphylococcus, and Catarrhalis, bacteriological tests show.

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

Dirty handkerchiefs are a menace to society!

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

BILLIE JONES and Ernie Hare, the lunmaking songsters with fra-tacio appetizers, who shook the Pittsburgh Radio-Electric Corporation show in Duquesne Garden to its foundations, will be back in the studio next week.

Darrell V. Martin

"You see," says Cantor, "the stage often keeps an actor in one town for a long time, especially if he happens to be playing in a popular offering. I prefer getting about the country. If I stay in New York too long the people in Houston, Tex., and Cleveland forget me.

"Now, when I'm on the air—'Yoo-hoo' Cantor speaking'—they all listen, that is, until they recognize that golden Cantor baritone. Then, even if they turn me off, I've still had my little joke. I may lose my battle for the presidency, but it'll take the Federal Radio Commission to keep me off the air."

Noel Eaglen, NBC announcer married Miss Beatrice Kneale who gained fame in "Ms Maryland." They met while students at the University of Rochester.

Edward East and Ralph Dumke, those irrepressible NBC "Sisters of the Skillet," have accepted an invitation to judge a pie-baking contest on the condition that they be allowed to sample each entry.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Already the autumn looms brightly on the radio horizon. Percy Grainger's rippling fingers are back on the microphone. And so for that matter are Ernest Hutcheson's.

Can't be depressed long with Grainger and Hutcheson about. . . . Jazz bands continue to come out of the West. Only a few jazz bands, save those of Harlem, originate in New York. . . . But New York gives 'em all a shelter, always finds room for one or more, as it always finds room for one more taxi.

They say there are 70,000 taxicabs in New York . . . Comes to radio a new personality called the Mystery Chef, with advice to those who are really serious about holding their husbands . . . Maybe radio will yet revive the art of cooking in America, and thereby save the American home.

And now it is university heads who are to tell us how to get out of the economic heebie-jeebies. Wish we had a dollar for every economic talk that has been broadcast in the last two years. We could commission Joseph Urban to go ahead on that East River penthouse. . . . One more disillusionment. Debussy, it appears, has been put through the jazz hopper.

Writes Wilbur Hamje: "In several cases I have made use of superb themes from 'Pelleas and Melisande' with excellent results and reactions" . . . Evidently crooner Columbo has been ordered to sing nothing but the kind of ballad of special appeal to the lonely little woman in the home. Well, that's what put Vallee over . . . And lightning has been known to strike twice in the same place.

Crooning baritones are now taking the places of brass bands on the air. They're so much easier on the ears, so much easier on the wallets of the commercial sponsors. . . . Wonder why the broadcasters don't lead George Jean Nathan to the microphone. A talk on the plays of the last five years that he has sat through to the final curtain would be a diverting topic . . . And it wouldn't take him long. . . . Only about five minutes.

One of the tinkliest tunes on the air is "You Forgot Your Gloves," fro mthe "Third Little Show" . . . Most mentioned words in a dance program are "By special permission of the copyright owners." The copyright owners must spend most of their time granting special permission to radio dance maestros.

SAFETY DRIVE DURING MONTH

The Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry will conduct a campaign against industrial accidents during October. A similar effort last March brought a marked reduction in mishaps in industrial plants.

Department records show March and October have been the peak months during the last 10 years for industrial accidents. Safety agencies and industries will cooperate in the drive to reduce the peaks.

Contests will be arranged in which the safest communities in Pennsylvania will be determined by checking accident statistics against population figures. The Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association is offering a plaque to the industrial concern making the greatest contribution to safety in 31.

80,000 ENTER ESSAY CONTEST

More than 80,000 children in 225 schools in Pittsburgh today started competition for 250 cash awards totaling $2,250 in the fifth annual traffic essay contest of the Better Traffic Committee. This is almost 100 per cent of the enrollments of the public and parochial schools, according to Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the education section of the committee.

The contest is an educational drive on jaywalking. Bureau of Traffic Planning statistics reveal crossings are the scene of 50 per cent of pedestrian accidents in Pittsburgh, whereas the national average is approximately 26 per cent.

Injunction Granted In Dry Complaint

A preliminary injunction was granted yesterday in Federal Court against an alleged saloon, third floor, 1011 Liberty avenue, of which Thomas E. Grise was named proprietor, in a bill of complaint filed by R. S. Krause, deputy prohibition administrator, charging violations of the prohibition law. A final hearing will be held December 22.

Meeting Arranged By Traffic Body

The regular monthly meeting of the Traffic and Transportation Association of Pittsburgh will be held in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce Building.

No Job Plea Fails; Rum Sellers Jailed

Harry Cramer of Jacobs Creek, Westmoreland County, was fined $50 and sentenced to serve three months in jail by Federal Judge Wilson McVicar, when he pleaded guilty of selling and possessing whisky and home brew beer. He said he was out of work at the time of the offense.

William Cherry, a Negro, was fined $50 and sentenced three months to jail when he pleaded guilty of violating the prohibition law at 1302 Webster avenue. He told the court he had been working at the place three days when it was raided.

Are You One of the 50% Fit?

"It is an undeniable fact," says Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell in one of his writings, "that the man and woman of today is but fifty per cent efficient and the cause is neither overwork nor a swifter pace of life but plain intestinal clogging."

If you suffer from nagging headaches, digestive disorders, tire easily, sleep poorly, break out in pimples or accumulate unhealthy weight, the cause unquestionably is intestinal clogging. The passage of waste is entirely too slow.

This slow passage is dangerous in three ways. First, a clogged intestine will not permit food from the stomach to enter. Consequently the food remains in the stomach to ferment, causing gas pains, indigestion and great distress. Second, the waste in the intestines ferments, forming gases and swelling the intestines to often twice their size. The intestines, in turn, crowd neighboring organs, displacing and irritating them.

Pains under the heart are frequently due to this crowding. Third, and the worst, intestinal waste breeds germs by the millions which the blood stream is constantly absorbing. Naturally these are carried to other organs and tissues and impair their working powers. That is why you feel so low and wretched.

Almost overnight you can eliminate this whole condition, even though it has dragged on for years. By the simple, hygienic practice of Internal Bathing with the J. B. L. Cascade. This unique appliance painlessly floods the entire five-foot lower intestine with clear, warm water purified by a marvelous cleansing tonic. It flushes every sac and pocket free of impurities and poisons.

It soothes the inflamed intestinal walls. It stimulates and tones the intestinal muscles so that elimination becomes prompt and normal.

The effect of a single 15-minute treatment will simply amaze you. You will feel joyful relief from bloating and distress. Taken just before retiring you will sleep like a child. You'll arise with bubbling energy and a mind as bright as a new-minted dollar. Years will seem to have dropped from your life. More than a million Cascade users will say "I told you so."

Convince yourself what a complete cleansing of the intestines and system will do. Step into any of our stores and ask for the booklet "Why We Should Bathe Internally." It's FREE. Read it from cover to cover . . . particularly that chapter by Dr. Turner. Then you'll know the way to 100 per cent physical fitness and glorious, abundant energy.

Girls Cheapen Themselves by Petting Promiscuously

Should a girl save her kisses? Not according to Rhonda.

"That old theory of saving your lips for the man you love doesn't mean a thing in 1931," says she. "Why should we save them? It's a cinch the boys aren't going to save theirs. They aren't passing up any thrills.

"Dear Sally:

"There is something that puzzles me, no matter what theories I hear. Here it is:

"What is an 18-year-old girl going to do about petting? I am easy to look at and popular, and naturally I love a good time. But there come times in the life of any girl when she craves a little loving. Now I don't want to pet with everyone I go out with but no matter how the evening is spent it winds up with a few kisses and cuddles.

"Is this cheap and common? Are you in favor of the old-fashioned idea that a girl's kisses be kept for the One and Only? If you are why?

"He isn't going to pass up any good times or save all his affection for her. And don't you think it would be a terribly dull world if our younger set decided to do it?

"A good time to me is talking, laughing and a bit of flirting. But sometimes talking just doesn't fill the bill when a boy and girl like each other and are sitting close in the moonlight. Of course I have no desire to go to extremes. So I don't see any harm in it. Do you think my friends will consider me vulgar, if I love someone and let him love me in return? Especially when the boys don't save their kisses." RHONDA

A CHEAP PRACTICE

So you just have to wind up every pleasant evening with a few "kisses and cuddles" do you Rhonda?

All right—kiss and cuddle if that's your style. But don't kid yourself that you're keeping yourself rare and desirable while you're doing it. You can't have your cake and eat it too.

Promiscuous petting is cheap, vulgar and common whether it happens in 1931 or 1891. And the girl who is willing to do it will always find plenty of takers. But she'll be tagged. She'll be held exactly at her own rating. If she puts no value on her favors, no one else will value them.

It's an old, old game girls and boys call petting. The boys may not save their kisses but nevertheless they have little use for the girl who doesn't save hers. There always be someone to cuddle with in the moonlight, Rhonda, but when it comes to finding someone who'll marry you, be glad the petting boys will be so plenty.

PUNISHMENT

Why should they not? What man wants another man's castoffs? Not a pretty word. Men use worse words than that for girls like you, youngsters. If you don't like hard names you'd better not be so generous.

And that isn't all. Horrid names and masculine sneers are not the only price you'll pay for lightly tossing Rhonda. You yourself will punish yourself for that decision. Wormout nerves, frazzled emotions will punish you. It's a thrill to kiss tonight. It will still be a thrill tomorrow. But two or three years from now when you're trying on stuff on the 95th man the thrill will be gone. It may be gone even though you love that man. You'll be a burnt-out matters.

Why did society decree that a girl should keep her kisses for her lover? That's one big reason why. Thrills don't go on forever. Emotions can become calloused as well as flesh. For the girl who has been Everyone's Sweetie there is no romance in marriage. That isn't morality, kid. That's physiology. If you don't believe it go look in the sad, spoiled eyes of the Prize Petters of yesteryear. Moonlight and easy kisses what don't they cost them?

Fay King Deplores That Fewer Young Men Mingle with Young Ladies

By FAY KING

One fault I find with these modern times is that one sees too many pretty girls going about together, and too many attractive young men alone when they should be together.

In other times when it was not proper for young ladies to go about evenings alone they were not lacking escorts. Young men knew that they were needed, and were eager to do the honors.

In those days, too, offices were not filled with lovely co-workers, and men looked forward to the end of the day and an evening with the ladies.

Has seeing so many pretty girls everywhere all day long taken the edge off of romance?

Madge's Sense of Humor Tempers Punishment of Boys

Mothers of experience know the advantage of silence in dealing with obstreperous children, and as I grasped the collars of my small son and his cousin just in time to prevent a fistic encounter, I remembered suddenly, whimsically, the comment of a mother of six whom I encountered in my teaching days.

"Keep 'em guessing," she said blithely. "I don't postpone a punishment, that's cruelty. But for a few minutes after I've turned up a piece of deviltry I keep perfectly quiet, don't open my mouth and let them do the wondering as to what I am going to do. It gives me time to get over being mad and to plan just what punishment I ought to hand out, and it sure gets 'em in a proper frame of mind."

I had tried the ruse before, with Junior, when he was a tiny chap, and with both boys in the months following Roderick's coming to our home to live. So they knew what I meant when, ignoring absolutely their muttered exclamations of "Gee!" and "Aw I didn't——" I looked at them steadily for a moment and then, releasing Roderick, pointed to a chair at one side of the room. He walked toward it without a word and seated himself, then I sent Junior in similar fashion to a chair as far away from the first as the room limits would allow. With both boys gazing at me with wide, wondering eyes, I sat down at my desk and pretended to busy myself with some writing.

They held out for almost five minutes. Then Junior's voice rose apprehensively.

"What are you going to do with us, Mums? Do we get a smacking?"

There was distinct hopefulness in the latter query, and I lowered my face over the desk to hide a smile. It has been a long time since Junior has had a "smacking" as he calls the mild switchings I used to administer in those days of early childhood, when in common with young puppies, physical discomfort is sometimes the most effective punishment. But I have a theory that to continue switchings after children reach an age when they are able to reason, is a serious mistake. If they have not been trained to obedience from infancy, corporal punishment is not the remedy.

I have a vivid remembrance of the last time I had administered a "smacking" to Junior. He had made an inordinate fuss over it, and inadvertently I had heard him confiding in Katie a little later.

"You know, Katie," he had said, "if you just get near the table and stick your legs against the drape, you hardly feel the switching. Then if you yell like the dickens, Mums stops."

I had soon found out that he infinitely preferred "smackings" to almost any other form of punishment. He never asked for them, but almost invariably when he knew that he was what Dickey called, "in Dutch with the powers that be," he asked hopefully as he just had done, if he were going to have one.

"Well, what are you going to do with us, then?" Junior persisted, disappointment and apprehension in his tone.

"I haven't quite decided what to do with you," I told them. "I was too astonished at what you were doing when I came in. You were both equally bad, you know, Junior, for attempting to hit Roderick."

"But I didn't hit him," my young son protested. I looked at him steadily and he reddened.

"Because I collared you in time," I said, "and turned to Roderick for yelling 'brat' at the top of his voice." I went on, and our young nephew started violently.

"But I didn't mean to call the baby that, honest," he said.

"Well, if you didn't, I didn't mean to hit you, either," Junior announced, adding truculently, "but if anybody thinks he can get away with calling my baby names he'd better have another think coming."

I seized the opening for excusing them, for which I had been secretly hoping. But they needed a little uneasiness first, I decided.

"Of course, I can put you to bed and have your dinners sent up on a tray——" I said as if to myself.

Correct Manners

Respect by Children

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly let me know if it is proper or a sign of ill breeding for nieces and nephews to call their aunt or uncle by a nickname? READER.

It is more polite, certainly, for the nieces and nephews to use the title of aunt and uncle with the addition of the names. This shows respect and a sense of good breeding.

At a Secon[d] arriage

Dear Mrs. Bee[ck]

A friend of [I] going to marry a wid[ow] with one child. Is it pr[oper] for her to wear a white d[ress] and a veil? Wouldn't it be be[tter] she wore a light colored g[own] with a hat? Also what color would you suggest? MISS R.

If this is the first marriage of your friend, there is no reason why she should not wear the traditional white dress and wedding veil of a bride. I take it from your letter that you mean that you think she should adapt her costume to the fact that the bridegroom has been married before. This is not necessary. Let her have all the joy of wearing the traditional bridal costume if she wishes. Of course, if she wishes to wear a dress of some becoming light shade that would be correct, too.

If she has been married before, etiquette does not permit her to wear a white dress or a wedding veil or orange blossoms.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Sleep Is Essential to Continued Good Health

Most visitors to great cities complain that they can't sleep. Of course a [good] many of them are so busy there are [few] hours left for sleep.

Dr. Copeland

Out-of-towners are apt to wonder how "city folks" can get along with so little sleep. The fact is the natives are in bed long before the visitors even think of retiring. The activities of a big city are most alluring to those who cannot indulge in them at home. Yet there is no doubt that most city dwellers do not get the same number of hours of sleep as do our cousins in the country.

Sleep is extremely important to [health]. Health cannot be maintained for any long period of time without an abundance of rest.

Colgate University recently made a survey of the sleeping habits of over 500 men of distinction. It was learned that the average number of hours of sleep was from seven and one-half to eight hours.

Twelve hundred questionnaires were sent out and the fact that most of them answered, shows the widespread realization of the importance of sleep. Among the men questioned were governors, writers, generals, playwrights, doctors, college presidents, judges and other extremely busy men.

There is a tradition that great thinkers and men of genius get along with very little sleep. There is an old theory that five hours of sleep is plenty, and that old folks need much less sleep than younger people. Neither of these common beliefs is true.

Old as well as young require sufficient sleep. Five hours are not enough to give an active mind and body adequate rest.

Many persons are eager to sleep yet cannot go to sleep. This may occur after a difficult day, particularly if much nerve strain and energy has been consumed. Many methods have been suggested to encourage sleep.

The least harmful of all methods of inducing sleep is to take a warm drink or hot bath just before going to bed. This method of obtaining relaxation is usually successful. I will tell you more on another occasion.

Household Hints

If suet is melted in the oven and put into jars it will keep for some time. Suet is easy to chop when treated in this way.

To insure a boiling fowl being tender, soak well in cold water all night, previous to boiling it.

To whiten handkerchiefs add one tablespoonful of peroxide of hydrogen to the water in which they are rinsed after washing.

Jobs for Girls

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

It has long been a mystery to me why when a high school girl considers work she invariably veers to the idea of being somebody's "secretary." Just as years ago when women first dared to think of being other than wives and mothers the only self-respecting jobs seemed to be those as teachers so now the mass of prospective girl-workers seem to feel that typing and short-hand are the standbys.

It seems to me that branch of work must be fearfully overcrowded. I have read statistics which prove it, and have also seen another angle of it in the employment of girls who could well afford to do no work at all or, as an alternative, could take years to prepare themselves for some task immeasurably more interesting and of more value to humanity.

I am addressing myself today to you girls whose fathers are well enough supplied with worldly goods to make it unnecessary that you throw yourselves on the present glutted labor market.

There are girls who aren't so fortunate as you girls who have no social background which might take them higher than the post of stenographer. But you, who have the background and opportunity to continue to study, why don't you, in the name of plain business-sense and incidentally altruism, leave that type of work for the girl who can go no higher, who must work NOW with no chance to wait any longer?

There are so many things YOU can do, so many truly interesting things. There is room for you in scientific research. There is a need for expert dieticians. You who can go abroad have the chance to master a foreign language which will make you valuable in an exporting house. And for you who aren't quite so serious about a vocation, it's profitable and interesting to start kennels, specialize on a certain breed of dog. It is interesting to teach bridge, if your bent is in that direction. You girls who are motor minded should be excellent teachers for women who are learning to drive a car. And YOU can do any of these things and hundreds more.

Think up a NEW individual job for yourself and leave the routine work for girls less fortunate, girls who haven't the time or opportunity to specialize. There never was a period when you were needed LESS in the business world, nor such a golden time to prepare yourself to be the BEST in a given line of special work.

Polls over twice as many votes as all other sets combined

On the palatial liner Berengaria, General Electric staged the first radio tone-test ever held at sea!

In the Grand Lounge, four radios were hidden behind a screen. One was a General Electric, each was a famous make. But to the audience, each was merely a number.

One by one they were played and replayed. The passengers listened. Ears alone were judge, jury, and court of appeals. Then each listener voted for his choice.

When the ballots were counted, 173 out of 248 listeners had voted for General Electric—more than twice as many as all three other radios combined! Radio "A" ran second with 42 votes, Radio "B" polled 20 and Radio "C" 13.

Discover how much more faithfully the G-E reproduces the original studio performance—with nothing lost, nothing added, nothing distorted. Let your own ears tell you the difference!

Stations come in at precise points. No overlapping. And because the G-E pulls in many stations—far and near—it widens the scope of your radio enjoyment.

Ask any G-E Radio dealer about the Certified Inspection Plan. You will find a General Electric set for whatever you care to spend, for prices range from $37.50 for the G-E Midget to $345 for the Automatic Radio Phonograph Combination—and every price includes a full set of tubes!

M'INTYRE AIRS TRAFFIC PLAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 1.—A close-in by-pass street system around the downtown business district is essential for permanent traffic relief in Pittsburgh, City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre, of that city, told members of the American Electric Railway Association at their annual convention here. He spoke on "The Development of By-Pass Routes in Pittsburgh to Relieve Traffic on Important Business Arteries."

He pointed out that approximately 50 per cent of traffic entering the downtown business district between 6 a. m. and midnight is through traffic and hence of the non-business-producing type based on results of a recent Boy Scout traffic count. He said:

"The elimination of this traffic would materially aid downtown business by the replacement of through traffic with an equal volume of business producing traffic and would not entail any greater burden on our streets at present."

ACCUSE DENTIST IN DEATH QUIZ

RENO, Nev., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Dr. Carl P. Andre dragged Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, Fairmont, W. Va., widow, away from a party at the dude ranch of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., a few hours before she met death September 13, it was testified at the dentist's preliminary hearing on a murder charge.

Mrs. Hutchinson, who came to Reno to wed Andre only to find that he had tired of her, died after a fall from his automobile.

M. K. McMillan, San Francisco newspaperman, testified he and several others, including Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett, were present at a party when Dr. Andre entered and "grabbed Mrs. Hutchinson by the arm and jerked her out of the room."

Three hours later Mrs. Hutchinson was killed, apparently by a fall from the dentist's speeding automobile on the outskirts of Reno.

GANG PLOTTER BARES KILLING

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—An associate of gangsters cast his lot with the law and from the witness stand named three men as members of an underworld execution squad.

Under a heavy police guard, the witness, Solomon Levine, 30, gave a detailed account of the killing, September 16, of three racketeers in a Collingwood avenue apartment house. He said the slain men were his associates, that he drove the automobile which took them to the apartment and that the defendants were three of the four killers.

The three accused men—Harry Keywell, Raymond Bernstein and Irving Milberg, all described by police as members of the once powerful Purple Gang—were ordered held for trial on charges of murder.

He blamed the Cook

but Oxygen had stolen the flavor

OXYGEN, not the cook, is most frequently to blame for a muddy, flavorless cup of coffee.

Just read these amazing facts established in the laboratories of a leading Eastern University:

(1) Loose or bag coffee loses 65% of its flavor in nine days after roasting

(2) Coffee in old-fashioned cans loses 45% of its flavor in nine days after roasting

All due to the attack of Oxygen!

Think of it! Forty-five to sixty-five per cent of the flavor gone from nine-day-old coffee. Even vacuum packing, a definite improvement over old-fashioned methods, removes only part of the air from the can, leaving sealed in enough Oxygen to cause flavor loss and deterioration.

The new Vita-Fresh Process removes the air so completely that the most rigid chemical analysis reveals no trace of Oxygen in the Vita-Fresh can after packing.

Remember—Oxygen is the destroyer of coffee freshness and flavor. The Vita-Fresh Process alone gives full protection to coffee goodness. Maxwell House and Maxwell House only gives you this guarantee of full flavor, full value in every pound.

Your first sip will be a taste thrill

If you would know how vastly superior, how thrillingly delightful, completely fresh coffee is, ask your grocer today for a pound of Vita-Fresh Maxwell House Coffee. Just one sip, and you will understand why lovers of fine coffee everywhere are switching to this finer blend, which comes to you with the fresh breath of the roasting ovens still on it.

Your money back if you don't agree it's finer

After trying Vita-Fresh Maxwell House Coffee, if you and your family do not agree that it is the finest coffee you have ever tasted—simply return the can with unused portion to the grocer from whom you bought it and he will gladly return the full purchase price.

Goebel Lands Here, Praises New Airport

PACIFIC FLIER HALTS FOR REPAIRS

Famed Airman Ready to Hop After Getting Propeller Hub; Says Field Excells All

Art Goebel, famed airman and winner of the Dole flight across the Pacific, was planning to take off today from the new County Airport, where he landed last night, as soon as a new propeller hub obtained from a local firm was adjusted.

Goebel seemed much impressed with the new airport as he exclaimed:

"You've got a real airport here. It is the best field I have ever landed on."

In his opinion the Deisel engine will play a big part in the future of aviation.

"I am working on a Deisel engine myself; I wouldn't be doing it if I didn't think that Deisel engines will be a big thing in aviation. I am stopping off at Detroit to see one that they have there."

After the stop-over at Detroit he will fly to several of the large cities in the country on business.

Navy Loses Ships But Gains New Swivel Chairs

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Economy at this stage is like changing the license plates on a stolen car.

If Mr. Hoover stops the raids on the Treasury a lot of Senators will have to learn a new trade.

Reduction in armament is all right. The little school children are tired anyway of singing about the Army and the Navy forever.

The new style in budgets will eliminate the athletic shoulders. The Navy will lose seven destroyers but the power of balance will be maintained by 50 more swivel chairs.

Looks like the American Legion is right about beer. It won't change things any but it will help you to forget.

It looks like naval economy will be popular in all branches of the government. We will keep the old boats and the older barnacles.

POOR FUND LOW, PINCHOT TOLD

Shorthand Expert Ends 50 Years With Pennsy

A man with graying hair, 70 years "young," was back with his farm and his books today after 50 years of active service with the Pennsylvania Railroad as a stenographer, clerk and then as chief clerk of the West Penn division.

Kuester is considered one of the best shorthand writers on the Pennsylvania system, officials said. He mastered the fundamentals of shorthand at the age of 14, then joined the staff of a New Castle newspaper, working for six years as a reporter.

He entered the employ of the Pennsylvania and soon became private secretary to Robert Pitcairn, general agent. He went with Pitcairn to Johnstown during the flood. There he lived for a month in a railroad car, and wrote an intimate history of the disaster.

He has other literary attainments, among them the translation of French fiction into shorthand, copying it in English. Kuester has retired to a farm purchased near Evans City.

Another Motorist Held Up In Driveway; Huckster Loses $50 in Attack

Forced back into his automobile as he was leaving his garage late last night, Jacob Schwartz, of 5623 Pocusset street, Squirrel Hill, was compelled to drive to Oakland with three young men who robbed him of $800. The trio forced Schwartz to drive them to Parkview avenue in Oakland where they stole his money.

Leaving his garage after putting his automobile away for the night, Edward Rothman, of 233 South Atlantic avenue, was held up and robbed by two young men in the driveway of his home early this morning. The pair, both well dressed, robbed Rothman of $25 in cash and a cigaret lighter. One of the men threatened Rothman with a revolver while the other searched his clothing.

Beaten by three Negroes in the rear of 512 Pawnee street, North Side, Matthew Mildred, a huckster of Salter way, was robbed of nearly $50. The money was the day's receipts, Mildred told police.

'PHONE 'SLUGS' HOLD PUGILIST

Harry Brown, 32, of Philadelphia, who as "Kid" Brown became a contender for the lightweight championship, was remanded to jail today to await further investigation, accused of using slugs in a telephone box to make a long distance call to Philadelphia.

Brown was apprehended last night by investigators for the Bell Telephone Company and city police, who claim they found a fourth slug in the boxer's pocket.

At a hearing in Central Police Court today before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, investigators testified that nightly long distance calls from pay stations revealed that slugs were being used, and a check-up of phone users resulted in Brown's arrest. He is charged with being a suspicious person.

Brown told police he had been to the fight last night in Myers Bowl, Braddock.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

In the old days in a prohibition fight the money used to be with the anti-drys, but nowadays it's all on the 'dry' side. On this side is the great bootlegging interest, which is no longer just a racket but an industry. Statistics show some new allies. Candy jumped from $150,000,000 to $400,000,000; soft drinks from $50,000,000 to $275,000,000, and ice cream from $55,000,000 to $305,000,000. So the poor anti-dry has nothing on his side but his thirst. Yours, WILL.

King George's Physician Visits Clinics Here

Sir Robert Stanton Woods, personal physician to King George V, of Great Britain, who is visiting in Pittsburgh, holds an optimistic outlook on the growth of British trade as a result of the abolishment of the gold standard. Sir Robert is visiting clinics in Pittsburgh and is the guest of Dr. Harry Goehring, 4342 Center avenue.

The English physician said it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that the abolishment of the gold standard was the wisest move Britain could have made for the development of industry and trade. He said there is no fear of the United States having its trade taken away by Great Britain.

Sir Robert has been in the city two days. He plans to leave today and visit Philadelphia, New York and Boston before sailing home. He is on the staff of the London Hospital, the largest in England, and was summoned to attend the King during the latter's serious illness two years ago.

STORE SHOWS TRAFFIC ART

The canvases are signed by The Boyers, and may be a set, so stated are [illegible] individual decorations.

"The Sailing Vessel" is an excellent tonal study in gray, gold and silver depicting ships in a New England port. "The Early Locomotive" is a charming decorative genre in gold and green with a casual quaintness that makes for spontaneity even in the period costume of the 1830's.

"The Modern Locomotive" in a train sheet is decisively drawn. "The Truck" is artfully silhouetted against the newer skyscrapers of Pittsburgh as a background.

The series is all the more pleasant because it is unexpected.

'32 TAX APPEAL PERIOD CLOSES

Time for entering appeals against 1932 school and city tax assessments terminated yesterday, Samuel Reno, of the Board of Assessors, said today.

Reno said only appeals on 1932 assessments on new buildings would be heard during October. No more appeals will be accepted until next year, when complaints against 1933 valuations will be acted upon.

Members of the Lincoln District Board of Trade wrote Mayor Charles H. Kline protesting against action by Thomas J. McMahon, chief assessor, in extending the privilege of a rehearing to only one Lincoln district property owner. The board asked that the privilege be extended to all property owners—nearly 1,000 in number—who protested last April.

Reno pointed out yesterday that individual cases had been heard during the past few months, but that it was contrary to law to rehear valuation complaints after they were once disposed of by the board members.

BRIDGE CHAMPS LEAD TOURNEY

Contract bridge, with "kibitzers" welcome, is being played today in the Pittsburgh Bridge Club, in William Penn Hotel, with more concentration and earnestness than members put into their usual daily rubbers.

The occasion is the Pennsylvania state championship bridge tournament, under auspices of the American Bridge League. With authorities on bridge from all parts of the state pitting their strength against one another, the tournament is becoming a test of the much-heralded and undoubtedly popular Culberton method, an the more conservatively presented system indorsed by Bridge Headquarters, Inc.

Mrs. J. S. Jones, Jr., and Albert R. Ayers, of Philadelphia, representing the Franklin Bridge Club of that city, successfully defended their title of state champions for contract mixed pairs. Tabulation of yesterday's scores gave them a total of 179½.

Second honors were taken in this competition by Miss Clara Morris, of Pittsburgh, and Clem Guns, of Cleveland, who had a score of 174.

WHARF PARKING PROFITS SHOW BIG GAINS

Receipts Thus Far Exceed Entire Year of 1930; $50,000 Gross Predicted

Tabulation of the gross receipts of the city's three wharf parking stations show that up until September 26 more money had been turned in from the wharves in 1931 than in the entire year 1930 and indicates that the city will earn about $50,000 gross on the stations for this year.

The Building Owners and Managers' Association on March 11 sent its first letter to City Council complaining about the small parking revenues collected by city police. In April, the revenue from all the parking stations showed a big increase, the total jumping from $2,260 in March to $4,044 in April and remaining above the $4,000 mark. Last year in no month did the revenue exceed $2,800.

Building owners and managers at their hearing before Council declared the parking stations with the 10-cent charge were worth $50,000 a year net to the city. The city in 1930 only received $6,000 net.

"When she ruined their

ELASTICITY* she ruined the fit

STOCKINGS that wrinkle and bag are so unsightly! Do you know what causes this loss of beauty, and how to prevent it?

New stockings are elastic. Knitted with silk threads that stretch and then spring back again. As long as this live quality of the silk is preserved, stockings cling closely, outlining contours with flattering snugness.

But when this precious elasticity is destroyed, stockings wrinkle and sag. Seams are crooked. Threads break instead of giving under strain, starting ruinous runs!

That is why Lux has been made especially to preserve elasticity. It offers you a sure way to make your stockings keep their fit, and make even the sheerest ones really WEAR.

* The Lux Way to make stockings FIT and WEAR

Don't rub with cake soap. This destroys the elasticity of the silk, making it lifeless, apt to break into runs, and ill-fitting. With Lux there's no rubbing. Even stubborn spots come out perfectly if you gently press a few dry Lux diamonds into the dampened spot.

Wash this 2-minute way:

1 teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair of stockings. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well.

Remember, anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

Try Lux FREE. Try this wonderful care for your stockings, at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Company, Dept. XF-x, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

LUX for stockings 2 minutes a day keeps them like new

—at 4 p.m.—"flat"!

. . . minutes seemed like hours . . . the "punch" to finish the day gone

TODAY, please take a moment to find out why you are sluggish or low in spirits.

It is not easy to be "up and doing" when that body of yours seems to rebel against work or play.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count . . . the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy. "Don't let them count you out" when more red-blood-cells will give you that New Strength to "carry on."

Enriches the Blood

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

It is a great protection to health and physical well-being to keep the red-blood-cell count up to normal. These cells build and sustain—they also remove impurities.

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

You should know that S.S.S. has the distinct advantage of being composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form . . . it is Mother Nature's formula.

By GEORGE SEIBEL

John Emerson and Anita Loos, authors of Lenore Ulric's new comedy, are citizens of Pittsburgh this week, and among the hardest working people you could think of. "Working like a dog" doesn't fit their case, for the three dogs in "The Social Register" have an easy time of it. Being led around on a leash by Lenore isn't hard work, though it's unpleasant to be penned up during the second act. It wouldn't do for those dogs to walk on when they're not wanted, as Robert Mantell's dog once did in "Romeo and Juliet," hearing his master's voice.

The authors have made many improvements in "The Social Register" since the opening night on Monday, but there is one they have not yet accepted.

George Seibel

Almost tearfully, I pleaded with Lenore Ulric to give us more historic truth in the bar-room scene.

Knowing about a half dozen families who have built Rathskellers and corner saloons into their beautiful homes, I was able to speak from present experience as well as vivid memories of days when a three-cent schooner entitled you to free lunch on a gorgeous scale.

BREWERY CALENDARS

In all the private bars I have frequented since Volstead became known, the old-time brewery calendar had a place of honor. There was the Loreley sitting on a rock, waiting for her bathing suit to dry, or perhaps a half dozen Rhine maidens watching for Herr Ziegfeld.

A bock bier sign or two and [illegible] would have to be [illegible] in full [illegible].

[illegible] with its [illegible] are as high in respectable [illegible]. In fact, to have your own Rathskeller is the very zenith of [illegible] success. And a mirror behind the bar, with a polar scene done in frosty soap, makes you eligible for the 400. You must have a real bartender and a lot of assorted bottles to [illegible] with a No. Trust air.

Miss Ulric called Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos to act as referees in my little debate. I called on Hans Hansen, the accomplished barkeep, as bottle-holder.

BATTLE IS UNDECIDED

The battle is still undecided. Lenore Ulric having been born in New Ulm and making her debut in the famous city of Milwaukee ought to show the higher respect for Kitty Gamburinus. She ought to know it is [illegible] to look like an undertaker's [illegible]. But women will argue, especially when they're wrong. The respectability of Mrs. Breene is her trump card.

I pointed out that the Federal Prohibition Bureau has convicted 59,086 people during the past year, all just as respectable as Mrs. Breene.

Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos have asserted their decision. Perhaps they're afraid an old-style barroom, historically accurate, would be regarded as anti-Volstead propaganda.

But I think the genial barkeep Hans Hansen has been converted.

"It would be like Old Home Week," he said. "With some white sand on the floor."

Cabaret Star

Stage Plays, Pictures Coming

Seats are on sale in the Nixon for "East Wind," which will have its world premiere in the Nixon next Tuesday evening. Matinees will be Wednesday and Saturday. "East Wind" is an operetta by Sigmund Romberg, with words by Oscar Hammerstein II, J. Harold Murray, Charlotte Lansing, Joe Penner, William Williams, Greek Evans, Vera Marsh, Bernice Ahl, Dennie Moore, the Four Millins Sisters and the Pearl Twins are included in the cast, and a hundred others.

The Alvin beginning Monday will present "Once in a Lifetime." This success comes here after a run of more than 400 performances in the Music Box Theater, New York. "Once in a Lifetime" is the work of Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, and was produced by Sam H. Harris. The original New York Company has been kept intact. There are nearly 40 speaking parts and seven scenes.

NEW FILMS TOMORROW

Edward G. Robinson takes the role of the hard-boiled managing editor in "Five Star Final," based on the Broadway stage play of the same name and opening tomorrow in the Stanley. H. B. Warner, Marian Marsh, Frances Starr, Boris Karloff and Anthony Bushell also are in the cast.

In playing the character of Chen-Bibi in "The Phantom of Paris," coming tomorrow to the Penn, John Gilbert undertook the portrayal of a dual personality. Not only does he appear as Pranco's idolized magician, but also as a worthless marquis.

Minna Gombell's timely aid and advice to the young married couple in "Bad Girl," Fox Film version of Vina Delmar's novel, furnishes much of the comedy which is freely sprinkled through this drama of young love. James Dunn and Sally Eilers are co-featured. The picture opens a third week in the Fulton today.

OTHER BOOKINGS

Warner Oland, William Boyd, James Gleason and Dorothy Sebastian have the leading roles in "The Big Gamble," romantic mystery film coming to the Harris Saturday.

The strangest railroad in all the world operates on the Radio Pictures ranch at Encino, Cal. It was built solely for a laugh in Bert Wheeler's and Robert Woolsey's latest comedy, "Caught Plastered," which comes to the Sheridan Square tomorrow for three days.

Claudette Colbert has the lead role in "Secrets of a Secretary," picture opening in the Davis and Enright Monday.

Joe Leavitt will bring his Columbia burlesque, "Giggles," with Kitty Warren, Jack Hunt and Clyde Bates, to the Academy Sunday midnight.

Sheridan Square in Plan For Vaudeville

After being dormant for some time, the policy of combined photoplays and vaudeville is to be revived in 20 cities, including Pittsburgh, according to a decision reached by R-K-O, successor to the former Keith and Orpheum vaudeville circuits. The Sheridan Square will be the local house affected by the plan, which will be made effective as soon as possible.

Bill Boyd Goes to Sea For Film Scenes

Bill Boyd and his fellow troupers of the film, "Suicide Fleet," will return to sea to film more scenes of the production aboard United States Navy destroyers. The unit has been working at the studio for the past two weeks, taking interiors and action on a Coney Island setting.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Mrs. Moonlight," the play that will open the Professional Players series in the Alvin October 12, beginning the first subscription season in that house, is the work of Benn W. Levy, young English playwright, who wrote "Art and Mrs. Bottle," in which Jane Cowl starred last season except when she played in Pittsburgh. Edith Barrett, who is co-starred with Sir Guy Standing in this comedy, was playing in Walter Hampden's company three seasons ago. Then she suddenly jumped into prominence in the New York run of A. A. Milne's "Michael and Mary." Sir Guy appeared with Ethel Barrymore in "The Constant Wife."

"Reunion In Vienna," in which Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt will act in the Nixon at the opening of the Theater Guild subscription season, October 12, was authored by Robert E. Sherwood, who used to write smart and sassy things about the celluloid drama. He blossomed as a playwright a few seasons ago with that history-kidding hit, "The Road To Rome." He also wrought "The Queen's Husband" and last season "Waterloo Bridge," now in our midst as a movie. Helen Westley and Minor Watson will be among the henchmen of Lynn and Alf on the occasion of their coming invasion.

NO food is more nourishing and digestible than elbow macaroni—but it has to be the best.

That means Mueller's. "Just any kind" will not offer the appetizing appeal that coaxes youngsters to eat heartily. "Just any kind" will not supply the high nutrition, or the extreme lightness and "fluffiness" that cause quick, easy digestion.

Mueller's Elbow Macaroni has all these qualities in an unequalled degree. It is made by special processes from the heart of the wheat, the most nourishing part. It cooks up better.

It is made in the convenient shape that young people prefer. Give them a treat today. Your grocer has Mueller's, or can get it for you.

Since Coming of the Talkies The Bridges Aren't What They Used to Be

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.

Hollywood dentists could tell plenty. In this community of actors, they are daily confronted with problems of facial rejuvenation, correction of mouth echoes and various special defects which cause teeth to photograph badly.

Only pearly white teeth are ideal for the camera. It is no unusual thing for film players to attain this effect by having a complete set of porcelain jackets. A famous foreign star has just been equipped in this fashion.

Clarke Gable

Facial rejuvenation is accomplished in a number of ways. One is by the use of bumpers, which are built out dentures to go under the cheek and fill out the hollows. There also are devices to overcome sagging of the mouth and lift up the corners of the lips.

Hollywood dental supply offices have books in which the requirements of certain stars are written in code.

Since the coming of the talkies, many stars have had corrections made in their denture to secure proper mouth acoustics. Bridgework, for instance, interferes with the proper resonance of the mouth and head.

Dr. J. M. Richardson, who supplied the information for this article, believes that Clarke Gable has the best set of masculine teeth in the film colony. He chooses Helen Chandler among the women.

LATEST GOSSIP

Frederick J. Perry, English Davis Cup player, has a terrific crush on Frances Dee. Incidentally, Perry's good looks have so impressed the film people that one studio intends to ask him to make a screen test. . . . Lawrence Tibbett will introduce one of Ernest Torrence's compositions on his concert tour. It is "Sweet Molly O'Dare." Last year Scotch Ernest had another Irish song introduced by John McCormack. . . . Although they recently decided to go separate ways, Miriam Hopkins and Austin Parker, the scenarist, are going about together. They were at the Embassy Club for lunch. . . . The Brown Derby, which has a reputation for smoothness, featured pork and beans on the opening day of its new Beverly Hills restaurant. . . . It is noticed in Hollywood that Margaret Livingston has put on a few pounds, while she has been persuading Paul Whiteman to stick to his diet. . . . Lieut. Com. Weed, author of "Dirigible" and "The Flying Fleet," has a book coming the first of the month. It is called "Wings for Men." Note to airplane salesmen: Since Will Rogers made a trip to Claremore in Hal Roach's plane, he is more favorable towards privately owned machines.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Can't get that weird Woollcott story out of my mind . . . The one he penned in that mag a coupla issues ago . . . One night, it seems, a young girl living in a country house down Louisiana way was startled out of her slumbers by the sound of carriage wheels beneath her window . . . She looked out and saw a hearse drawn by four horses . . . The driver, with a prominent scar and other spooky features, removed his high hat . . . He walked under her window and said: "Are you ready?" . . . The girl became hysterical and later looked out the window to make sure she was dreaming . . . For three nights the same horrible dream visited her . . . The following year she was in one of the New York department stores . . . She tried to enter an elevator which already was crowded with shoppers . . . The elevator man looked at her—he had the same scar, prominent beak and other ghostly features of that hearse-driver in her dreams! . . . He said to her: "Are you ready?" . . . She backed away in terror and the door closed . . . She watched the elevator indicator record the car's descent . . . A few moments later she learned that on that trip the elevator fell and all its occupants were killed! . . . What a face-fuzz lifter that is!

Reminds me of the one I heard the other night, a true one, however . . . About the Baron and Baroness, well known in town . . . A year ago the Baroness died . . . Recently the Baron re-

Paid to Shoot The Stars

He shoots at screen stars for the money there is in it, sends his trained bullets careening through their hats, tears his leaden pellets through their sleeves or trouser legs, collects his pay check and turns it ultimately into juicy steaks and hash-browned potatoes.

His job with Dix was a comparatively easy one. At a distance of 20 feet he sent bullets through Dix's hat.

Does he miss?

Never! That's why Dix is alive today and why Harvey goes on his merry way shooting the screen's greatest stars.

Loses 16 Pounds of Fat—Eats as Usual

Fat Folks—Here's More Proof—One Bottle of Kruschen Salts and Sixteen Pounds Gone—Eats as Usual—Sleeps Better—Costs 85 Cents

Modern Science now makes it possible for you to easily and what's best, to SAFELY obtain a slender free-from-fat figure and actually enjoy exhilarated health and increase your attractiveness while doing so.

Simply take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—you can hasten the reducing action of Kruschen by going lighter on potatoes, fatty meats and pastries.

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. I feel so good in many ways. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat too. I have told 2 of my friends about Kruschen and they find it as I do."

Unlike other salts, Kruschen doesn't aim to reduce by rushing food thru the system—rather it's a superbly blended combination of SIX separate mineral salts which help glands and body organs to function properly—that's why it's so amazingly successful in cases where everything else has failed.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS (lasts 4 weeks). If this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—an gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

Within the next few weeks plans for many a debutante entertainment will be settled. And before many weeks the buds will be making thir bows.

One of the most popular debs will be Marguerite Borntraeger, or Rita, as she's better known. Her father and mother, the Carl H. Borntraegers, will present her to society on November 28. They haven't yet decided what sort of affair they'll give.

The Borntraeger family arrived in town night before last from Naumaris, Canada, where they have their summer home. Motoring home they stopped off in Toronto for a week.

One of the most active organizations of society women is the Federation of Girls' Schools Societies, which has as its chief interest the maintenance of the Natural Convalescent Home.

The representatives of the different schools meet second Wednesdays of every month, from fall until summer, in the Penn-Lincoln office in the William Penn hotel. In January there's a luncheon annual meeting that takes the place of the social affair, a luncheon at 1 precedes the business hour.

During the past summer the Carmarville Home did so much work that meetings were called in July and August, according to the president, Mrs. George Singer Gilbert.

NEW ENGLAND FLAVORS PROGRAMS

Pittsburgh Colony Members to Give Talks on States at Meetings Beginning October 12

Although its programs are always of interest, the Pittsburgh Colony of New England Women will find more than the usual native flavor in those prepared for the coming season. It is to be a distinctly New England year, one or more of the members speaking on their native states at each meeting and the program including an outside speaker as well.

The first meeting is set for October 12—a reception for the president, Mrs. Harold L. Lang, in the Woman's City Club. The program that day will consist of the reading of a New England play by Ray E. Hurd.

In November Mrs. George Pearson will give an appreciation of Maine. Mrs. David Wilson Kuhn will review "Arundel" and Lowell lines will discuss poems of Maine. "White Mountain Landmarks" and "Green Mountain Wanderings" are the topics on which Mrs. J. Kirkwood Craig and Mrs. Hugo Kahl will speak in December when the club meets with Mrs. F. J. Chesterman, of Lytton avenue. Mrs. Chesterman's husband is to speak that day under the informal topic, "A Chat with Our Host."

January's meeting will be the customary "invitation day," when women interested in but ineligible for the colony are asked to meet with the members. A comparison of the Brook Farm experiment with the Russian five-year plan will be made by Mrs. Thomas McCance Mabon. Miss Edith Ely will talk on "Halls of Learning," and Chester B. Story will read a Massachusetts poem.

January Meeting

Rhode Island day will be celebrated in February with Mrs. Thomas C. Clifford talking about Roger Williams, Mrs. Leslie F. Frost telling tales of Newport and Dr. Charles Watkins speaking on scientists of New England.

WALTER WINCHELL

On Broadway

turned to New York . . . He met a young and pretty Princess, who visits the city often . . . She dined with him at his place . . . She was so young, so alive, so full of zip! . . . He asked her to dine again a week later . . . This time she was glum and dull . . . "I don't understand," he said to her. "Last week you were so merry, you made me so happy. Tonight you are blank. What's the matter?" . . . "I don't know," she said as she stared, "but when you were getting the cocktails, I went into your room and opened a jar on the dresser and took some of your snuff to see if I'd like it." "My heavens!" he shrieked, "that isn't snuff. Those are my wife's ashes!"

That Belle Livingston gal is up to her tricks again, I see . . . From her Reno quarters she sends the most engaging letters to clients . . . She writes them that she has learned from experience that Americans want real novelty in their entertainment when they pay for it, and second, not to take any more chances with padlocks . . . She promises "smart" entertainment and environment plus games of chance, a fine orchestra, perfect cuisine, etc. . . . She concludes with this come-on: "You need not join the gay divorce colony to enjoy the freedom of Reno. But if you must—why, I shall hope to make more pleasant your six weeks' stay." . . . Funny piece in that Irish rag which discusses the columnists . . . It tells how people can, after all, do without certain things—and how a weekly magazine went out of business because a columnist quit it . . . And that 50 other columnists gathered to devise some means of assisting him . . . During the meeting, it appears, the chairman asked: "Why is it that the columnists have so many enemies?" . . . And one replied: "We have no enemies—out our friends hate us!"

Oh, I dunno . . . If some of us didn't have so many friends we'd never be able to collect all the dope it takes to fill the daily pillars . . . I am rich with friends, I think, considering all the help they give me . . . It takes a lot of friends to put one of my columns together . . . I've never asked a star to appear with me on my broadcasts whom I've annoyed . . . Those who favor me are those who like me . . . Kate Smith, frinstance . . . Long before she ever clicked on the air waves, a music publisher asked me to give her a break and put her on . . . Kate was practically obscure then. I wanted "names" . . . But I put her on . . . And now, they tell me, she is one of radio's topnotchers and has as much money as U. S. Steel once had . . . They can't tell me I haven't a lot of friends . . . And not because of the favorable comment I might give them, either . . . What can I give George M. Cohan? . . . He went on for me once . . . And now Cab Calloway insists that if the radio listeners really liked him that much he wants to go on again—and as soon as possible . . . So I've booked him to repeat his wa-hoo-ha-ing in the Cotton Club manner on Oct. 13 . . . I could discuss "friends" for hours . . . I've never lost one I wanted to keep!

I don't savvy the Mayor's complaint, at all . . . I mean that part of it when he asserts that the "special writers" have given him the bad name of being a wisecracker . . . Well, perhaps he isn't a wisecracker. But he is a wit, and whenever I was lucky enough to jot down his quips exclusively they helped make my pillar brewzier. Surely he will not disown the crack he perpetrated at the Chevalier dinner on the Sabbath eve . . . When he declared that he was happy to be home again—even if it is "to pass through town" . . . When he argued, in that interview, that many reporters misquoted him for the sake of a story, he had good cause . . . I once asked him why he never denied the statements if they were not true . . . "Because I do not want to cost any reporter a job," he said . . . I know, too, of two reporters who lost their posts because they offended Jimmy, and he phoned the newspaper owner and urged him to reinstate them, anyway.

There's Hoover, frinstance . . . He's a columnist at heart . . . During his talk to the Legion in Detroit he never credited Garfield with a nod or bow . . . And Mr. H. practically used word for word of Garfield's plea to the G. A. R. vets of 50 years ago when he discussed pensions . . . Reuben, the delicatessen man, has learned another lesson . . . One of his bus boys was taken ill recently . . . The head-waiter told Reuben that the bus boy revealed signs of amounting to something . . . "Why not send him to your doctor and take care of him?" suggested the head-waiter; "he will be grateful and be a faithful employe!" . . . Reuben's doctor charged $90 to Reuben for his services . . . He also suggested hospital treatment . . . Reuben got the boy a semi-private room . . . Which cost Reuben $100 . . . When the chap was discharged from the ailing room he called on Reuben . . . "I just tell me," said the fellow, "that the air is bad in this country, and that I ought to go back to Germany" . . . "Oh, I'm sorry," said Reuben . . . "Yeh," snapped the chap, "but you owe me two days' pay. Kick in!"

Ambrose was en route to Pittsburgh from Erie, where he had been sentenced to three years in Atlanta following a plea of guilty to a morality charge.

Contending that he was in a coma when he made a plea of guilty to the charge, Ambrose said he planned to surrender to authorities and seek a new trial.

Now Let Us Make Your Teeth 3 Shades Whiter in 3 Days!

New Technique Removes Yellow and Stain—Impossible with Ordinary Brushing

LOOK at your teeth. What do you see? Ugliness? Stain? Discoloration that is not pleasant to look at? Science has discovered a simple technique that quickly removes all off-color, cleans teeth dazzling white—3 shades whiter in 3 days—and helps to keep away decay.

This technique, while having 2 to 3 times the cleansing power of old-fashioned methods, does what no ordinary toothpaste can do. It rids the mouth of millions of germs that sweep in with every breath and cause most tooth and gum troubles. That's the reason it makes teeth so clean and white—even teeth that have been yellow for years!

Just start brushing your teeth with this new technique—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, twice a day. Instantly you'll discover a difference. For when Kolynos enters the mouth it becomes an active, exhilarating foam that cleans out every pit, fissure and crevice and leaves the mouth refreshed.

According to tests this amazing Kolynos foam kills 190 million germs in the first 15 seconds and inhibits their growth for 3 full hours. It washes away ugly tartar and yellow, and stimulates the gum tissue.

Thus, easily and quickly teeth are cleaned right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel without injury. They are kept sound.

Start using this Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique. In just 3 days you'll see how foolish it is to have dull, yellow teeth. Teeth will look whiter—3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer. Your mouth will feel clean and refreshed. Buy a tube of Kolynos.

SIXTEEN OUNCES

Dishes That Gleam . . .
Glassware That Sparkles
In ½ the Time This Remarkable Way

Ends Greasy Scum . . .

Ever wonder how the fine shops make dishes and glassware sparkle on display? They use a special preparation that eliminates greasy film on dishes. That ends scum on dishpans—and actually cuts dishwashing time in half! Like to try it?

It is not just another soap but a water-softening cleanser that makes any soap more effective in cleansing results by changing "hard" water to "soft". And you need use only one-fourth the soap formerly needed. Results are like magic, women say.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your dish water. Just a teaspoon or two.

Instantly it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water. So soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the soap you use now. And thus ends the greasy soap film that was formerly so hard to avoid.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all grease and grime. And thus cuts washing time, too—in either dishpan or washing machine—ONE-HALF or more.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1930 women used 33,000,000 packages of Climalene for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

Results in clothes washing are equally amazing. For Climalene ends "soap eat," the chief cause of fading, streaking and grayness.

We wash delicate lingerie, often 50 times—without perceptible fade. Children's rompers, 60 to 90 times. That's over a year's home washing.

We wash gold encrusted china hundreds of times—without a trace of gold gone. And thus prove the blandness of this way.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white. Then try it.

Your grocer has it. Sold only in 10c and 25c packages. Note the name—CLIMALENE.

Big Slab Corps no Edge.
Quality Winning Factor.
Calls Gomez New Grove.
Klem in 15 Series.
Chocolate Resumes.
Duke Center's Grit.

SMALL STAFF USUALLY BAGS CLASSIC

IN SOME OF the dope preceding the start of the world series today—entirely too much stress was laid by National League sympathizers on the fact that the Cardinals own a larger pitching staff than the A's. The acquisition of Paul Derringer since last fall was held to have helped the St. Louis cause by enlarging the slab corps. That doesn't look like the right slant. All Derringer's pitching through the series enables the Cards to win or to make a better showing than they made last year it will be because he has brought new quality to the mound corps, not because he has increased its size.

Paul Derringer

The defeat of the Redbirds in the 1930 series wasn't due to their not having a sufficient number of pitchers. It was due to the fact that they didn't have hurlers good enough to cope with Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw. It's helpful to have plenty of capable relief flingers around, no mistake about that, but it's the QUALITY of the pitchers, not the QUANTITY, that tells in a short series.

THERE'S A LIMIT to the number of chuckers a manager can use to advantage in a fight confined to the brief period covered by a post season derby. If the starters are good enough they won't need any relief, and if they're not good enough, repeated shifting won't mend matters. A large staff is no better than a small one if the latter is of the right kind.

And that applies particularly to a series like the one of 1931 where there is a schedule with long breaks that will give a few chosen starting hillmen a chance to rest up between appearances on the firing line. If these early starters have shown themselves to be in top form in their first games, nothing could be gained by making a change on the second round, just for the sake of using new ones who happen to be available. And too much rest might make the first set less effective the second time out.

IT IS THE history of the world series that success has generally been attained by small pitching staffs. With eight men this fall, omitting Hadley, Derringer, Grimes, Hallahan, Rhem, Johnson, Lindsey, Kaufmann and Stout, the Cards instead of having an advantage may suffer the fate that befell the Robins in the best five-out-of-nine series in 1920.

Cleveland couldn't win because Brooklyn had too many good pitchers, it was said. The Robins had Grimes, Cadore, Marquard, Pfeffer, Smith, Mamaux and others. They could use first-string men for relief work. But Coveleskie won three games for Cleveland and Bagby and Mails won one each, and Brooklyn's big staff counted for naught.

MATHEWSON, McGINNITY AND Ames were all that worked for the Giants in the victory of 1905 and Ames was in only one game. Altrock, Walsh and White won for the White Sox a year later. Brown, Overall, Reulbach and Pfiester carried the Cubs through in 1907 and 1908, only three of them pitching in the latter year. Bender and Coombs were the only hurlers used by the A's in 1910, and only Plank was added in 1911. The Braves found James and Rudolph enough to win with in 1914. Cicotte and Faber started all the games for the White Sox in 1917. Grove and Earnshaw pitched five of the six games last year, and if memory serves they stood up fairly well under the burden. The world series is too short for numbers to count, unless slugging matches in every game make the thing a test of endurance and reserve power. Three pitchers will be plenty, if they're good enough.

Vernon Gomez

THERE MAY BE only one Lefty Grove in baseball at present, but there's another on the road according to Charley Berry, football coach at Grove City and star catcher of the Boston Red Sox. He refers to Vernon Gomez, who southpawed the Yankees to 21 victories this year.

Berry batted against Gomez often enough during the summer to get a first-hand line on him, and he rates the New York left-hander a real find. Charley predicts that Gomez will be the equal of Grove when he gains in experience and perfects his control.

"WHEN GOMEZ is right he's just as tough as Grove to get to," said Berry in discussing the Yankee hurler. "This year he was inclined to be wild, but he will overcome that. He is strong and rugged, has a lot of stuff, and will go a long way."

Berry also is a strong booster for a team mate, Danny MacFayden, bespectacled Red Sox flinger. Charley asserts that Denny has as much on the ball as any right-hander in the American League.

THIS IS THE fifteenth world series in which Bill Klem has officiated as an umpire, a record not approached by any of his colleagues, past or present. He made his first post-season appearance in 1908, paired with Hank O'Day from the National League. He umpired with Jim Johnstone in the series of 1909, with Bill Brennan in 1911, with Cy Rigler in 1912 and 1913, with Bill Byron in 1914, with Rigler again in 1915 and 1917, with O'Day in 1918 and 1920, with Barry McCormick in 1922, with Ernest Quigley in 1924, with O'Day in 1926, and with Charley Moran in 1929.

KID CHOCOLATE returns to the Queensberry wars tonight, meeting Joe Scalfaro, Harlem veteran, in a 10-round bout in New York. It will be the Kid's first appearance since he took the junior-lightweight crown from Benny Bass in July. That title won't be at stake tonight, as it isn't recognized in New York.

Scalfaro was the first fighter to halt Chocolate's original rush. In the winter of 1928, after the Cuban Negro had won 34 consecutive bouts as a professional, Joe held him to a draw in 10 rounds and came within an ace of putting him away in the opening frame. Scalfaro will hardly repeat tonight, however. The edge appears to be all with Chocolate.

BEN BARRETT, Duquesne University junior from Youngstown, O., and first choice for center duty on the current varsity football team during the remainder of the season, has earned the respect of his coaches and fellow players by his display of grit in the last year.

Early in the spring, Barrett was taken to a hospital and had to forego the preliminary grid drills at that time because of an appendicitis operation. He recuperated during the summer and aided Youngstown amateurs in a number of boxing shows. He is deeply interested in amateur boxing and is a glove-man of no mean ability himself.

Ben Barrett

REPORTING WITH THE other Duquesne football candidates this fall, Ben showed lots of promise until acute tonsilitis put him in the hospital again and the team physician decreed that he would have to part with the troublesome tonsils some time soon. Nevertheless, Barrett is still going strong as the regular snapperback on the Bluff, having beaten out both Ben Ciccone and Ed Reilley, though the two gave the Youngstown lad a real race for the position. Since the graduation in June of the Duke "center twins" Maesh Silverstein and Pat Lally, filling the center berth could almost be classed as two men's work for Head Coach Elmer Layden. And all the time, while he is giving his best for the Red and Blue, Barrett faces the clippers and a loss of time because of his tonsils.

TECH DISPLAYS FINE SPIRIT IN DRILL

Bob Waddell is convinced that he will be able to turn a fighting ball club over to Judge Walter P. Steffen when the latter arrives tomorrow from Chicago to take charge of the Carnegie Tech squad in its eighteenth game with W. & J.

Convinced that what the Tartans need more than anything else with their available manpower low, a morale none too good after sapping losses of good men, and a poor showing against University of Buffalo is a revived spirit Waddell has been working all week to restore the team's confidence in itself.

TEAM COMES TO LIFE

There was a definite response to such tactics in yesterday's practice and for the first time since the ineligibility of Croft and Burnio, the squad showed signs of coming to life. Waddell seized the opportunity to stage his third scrimmage of the week, although the work was far from rough and the men were cautioned to "pull their punches" in the sham battle.

Capt. Armentrout and George Kavel still are being carefully nursed along. They have been used only in signal drill this week since Waddell realizes that Carnegie's only chance to do anything on the offense depends upon their being in the pink of condition.

Graveno, Vorderburg and Pouncey were used as the ball carriers in yesterday's brief scrimmage. Pouncey is sure to start at fullback, but the use of Graveno and Vorderburg indicates that they will be the first string substitutes for Armentrout and Kavel. MANAGER GABBY STREET, OF CARDS, PONDERS OVER THIS GROVE FELLOW

Can the St. Louis Cardinals balk the hope of Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics of winning their third straight world series in the games beginning today in St. Louis? Well, a lot depends upon how they fare against Lefty Grove, ace of the A's, and Manager Street, of the Cards, who saw plenty of Lefty in last year's battles, is giving the matter plenty of thought.

OPENER FINDS ALTROCK NOT AT BEST

By NICK ALTROCK
Baseball's Funny Man

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—Well, folks, here we are set for another world series and you baseball fans naturally are interested in how the participants shape up. First of all, I will report on my own condition.

Nick Altrock

While the other athletes and experts may be in the pink, I am in the red. Last night we had a crap-shooting tournament and Uncle Nick almost threw his salary wing out trying to shake an eight. This leaves me a little lame for my experting. I may have to use a stenographer for the first couple of games, so if you see "Dictated, but not read," at the bottom of my stuff, you will know my arm is no better.

The St. Louis beer is the finest in the country, but, fortunately, I am a southpaw in this department of the game and I will not have to hire a nurse to pour me nourishment. My elbow still is bending in mid-season form.

Now as regards the world series proper, there is a well-defined rumor that Grove will face Hallahan in the opener. This is denied by the White House.

LEFTY LIKELY TO COP SERIES FOR MACKS

By BABE RUTH
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—The chief difference between the A's and the Cardinals in the world series, starting today, is a tall left-hander by the name of Robert Moses Grove. And because Grove will do considerable pitching during this series I look for the Athletics to win baseball's highest honors. If Grove were pitching for the Cardinals I would pick them to finish in front.

Babe Ruth

In other words, I see this series as a battle between two high-class ball teams. As I said in an earlier article, I think the Cardinals have the better infield and the A's the stronger outfield. Each has great catching. Pitching always is the main factor in a series of a few games, and Grove gives the A's a decided edge in pitching.

WEAK AGAINST SOUTHPAWS

The Cardinals have been weak against southpaws all season, I am told. They were beaten five straight times by Bill Walker, of the Giants, and they did not beat him once. Twice he pitched two-hit games against them. Any team which is weak against southpaws is likely to be particularly weak against Grove. He has made every team in his own league look bad this season, whether the particular team liked southpaws or right-handers. He is the greatest pitcher of many years, perhaps the greatest left-hander in the history of the game.

Add to the presence of this great pitcher on the side of the A's the fact that the schedule couldn't be better for the American Leaguers if Connie Mack had drawn it up himself. Grove can start three times while getting three complete days of rest between his starts. He will be able to do relief work if needed, and he is the best pitcher in the game today to protect a one-run lead or hold another team runless until his own team can score.

A GREAT SERIES

In stressing Grove, I am not forgetting that the big bats of Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx, and a tight defense will also be on the job, or the fact that the Cards are real champions. It looks like a great series, and I hope it is.

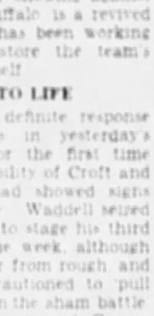
DUKES AWAIT OGLETHORPE

Coach Harry Robertson invades Pittsburgh from the South this afternoon with his big Oglethorpe University team for a game with the Dukes at Forbes Field tomorrow night. Arriving at 5 o'clock, it is the first time that Oglethorpe ever has played here, and the Stormy Petrels plan a workout at the Oakland ball park tonight. The Dukes also will drill under the lights.



Dan Kenzie

The team from Atlanta is one of the strongest elevens in the South, boasting many excellent gridders.

Among the stalwarts in the Oglethorpe line is Don Kenzie, tackle, who is expected to shine for the Southerners against the Dukes. Kenzie received all-America honorable mention last year and is a tower of strength in the Oglethorpe forward wall.

ST. PAUL BEATS ROCHESTER

ST. PAUL, Oct. 1.—(AP)—A terrific eight inning line drive over the left field fence by Oscar Roettger, with three men on the bases, gave St. Paul the opening game of the little world series with Rochester, 4 to 0, here yesterday.

The game had been a tight pitching battle between Walter (Huck) Betts, for the Association champions, and Carmen Hill, of the International League.

It may prove costly to the Red Wings in more than one way. George Sisler, former big league star, now playing first base for the International League club, aggravated an old injury to his groin going to first in the second inning on a single, and was forced to retire from the game. The score:

Sun-Telegraph, Tech Hosts At Game

Boys and girls not more than 16 years old will be able to see the Carnegie Tech-Wash-Jeff game at the Stadium Saturday for a round thin dime.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has distributed thousands of tickets among the school children and one of these, accompanied by the aforementioned 10 cents, will serve as the admission fee if presented at Window No. 18 of the Stadium, near the Medical School.

A similar arrangement is to be made for later games with the Sun-Telegraph co-operating with the Carnegie Tech and Pitt athletic officials to place college football within the reach of the pocketbooks of the youngsters.

Gridders of Knox College Drill Here

The Knox College gridders, of Galesburg, Ill., were visitors in the city today. The Illinois team engaged in a spirited workout on the Duquesne University field this morning. The team is on its way to play Army at West Point Saturday.

STYDAHAR ON SANDLOTS

Joe Stydahar, 210-pound tackle from Sistersville (W. Va.) High school, who was granted permission to play with the West Virginia University freshman because he quit the Pitt grid camp after practicing for one week with the Panther yearlings, has decided to play with the Star City (W. Va.) independent eleven.

PIRATES DRAFT SLUGGER

Staff Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—The Pirates were caught in last night's draft to the extent that the right-handed batting division of the team may receive an impetus that will turn many games next year. When the anual draw was made in Judge Landis' room at the Hotel Chase, the name of Outfielder Dave Barbee, slugger extraordinary, was alloted to the Pittsburgh requests for eligible players.

Dave Barbee is a rollicking socker, who so far this season poled no less than 46 homers for the Hollywood Club of the Pacific Coast League. Barbee's hitting was one of the reasons why Hollywood won the first half honors in the distant circuit.

Big Dave is a home run king in his own right, according to Tom Laird, prominent San Francisco writer, who is in St. Louis to attend the series.

Barbee had a short tryout with the Athletics a few years back, after he shined in the Sally League. Mack passed him along, but the boy continued to improve until he has established himself as a real swatter.

But the best part of it all, from a Pittsburgh standpoint, is the fact that Dave is a righthand batter. Our lefthand swingers of the past season left enough men

ROONEYS TOP BURNS, 7-0

By TOM BIRKS

Facing a club that battled every inch of the way, the Rooney Majestics, West Penn's Independent Football Conference champions, successfully opened their season by beating the Dan Burns Club, at Parnassus High School Field, 7 to 0, with 9,000 fans watching the battle last night.

The only score came early in the second period. Following a Rooney punt, the Burns backfield fumbled, and Whitmore fell on the ball. A series of drives by Rooney, Kelsh and Josh Williams took the ball to the two-yard mark, and Kelsh went over, Rooney booting the extra point.

The first downs were 9 to 7 in the Burns' favor, but it seemed Art Rooney was trying out all his available talent. He started the former Pitt backfield, Hood, Rooney, Walinchus and Wagner, and replaced with Josh Williams and Mose Kelsh early in the second period.

Burns suffered a severe loss, Mance Gillas, who was playing a great game in the backfield, was carried from the field just before the touchdown. It was reported his arm was broken.

At the start, the Rooney men marched from their own 40-yard line to be stopped on the one-foot line. Burns holding for downs. Berkman was brilliant. Burns scored seven first downs to one in the second half, but when the goal line was threatened, Rooney sent in his first string men. The lineup:

Rooneys—7.		Dan Burns—0.
Quarino	L E	Seyburn
Skender	L T	Imms
Kelsh	L G	Ewing
Silverstein	C	Pinero
Lance	R G	Jones
Kemp	R T	Redman
Whitmore	R E	Barbiro
Rooney	Q	First
Wagner	L H	Ford
Walinchus	R H	Berkman
Hood	F	Gilles

Score by periods:

Rooneys	0	7	0	0—7

TWO GAMES TONIGHT

Two night games are scheduled for the sandlotters. The Armstrong Bulldogs and the Etna Sycamores make their bow in Section I of the Lightweight Conference at Sanders Field, while at Charleroi the Comer Club opposes the Christy Park team.

KISKI, WITH JIM MARKS AT HELM, POWERFUL

NINE VETERANS BOLSTER PREP SCHOOL TEAM

(This concludes the annual series of special articles, written by Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph football writer, dealing with the prospects of tri-state district college and preparatory school elevens. This is the nineteenth of the series.)

The Poet of Elder's Ridge is back in the football harness again and old Kiski is looking forward to another great gridiron season.

Jim Marks

Two years ago, the shrewd J. L. (Jim) Marks, advisor to a half score of the leading football coaches of the country, the man who helped develop the famous Warner system of play, decided he'd give up varsity coaching at Kiski, devote his time to teaching and head mastering and working with the juniors, the kids of the school. That was two years ago. At the time, I made a wager that he'd be back again within a year.

Technically, I lost that wager, for J. L. remained somewhat in the background last fall, serving in rather an advisory capacity. This year, however, Jim is the big shot again, out on the field with the varsity every day and is busy constructing what looks to me to be a pretty nifty machine.

NINE LETTERMEN

Kiski is in better shape as far as veterans are concerned this year than it has been for years. There are nine lettermen remaining from last year's squad, five linemen and a complete backfield. The new material is promising to the extreme and when two or three of the leading lights of the squad, who've been on the sidelines so far with injuries and sickness, come around, Kiski will be a potent football dose for any opposition.

The schedule is tough enough though, and the Black and White hardly expects to ramble through undefeated. The boys open Saturday with the Navy Plebes at Annapolis. Then they rest a week before tackling Duquesne's freshmen. Wash-Jeff, Carnegie Tech, Pitt and Penn State will match their frosh machines against the Marksmen on successive weeks, and the North Carolina yearlings are to be engaged in the grand finale the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

Marks had two veterans set for the wing jobs, Baker and Moore. All these lads have to do to hold their positions is to fight off the challenges of Reynolds, Yeager, Moscript, Leonard and Snyder, freshmen. The veterans will have an edge in experience that will be difficult to offset.

VETS AT TACKLES

Another pair of vets, Scholl and Romoser, are the best looking set of tackles, hard pressed by Laskey, of Brownsville, Phillips, from Morgantown High, Townsend, Biddle and Sutton. Scholl, who played one year at Allegheny College before returning to prep school, is a fine line prospect and one of the heaviest men on the squad. He weighs around 200 pounds.

Jerry Weibel, a brother of the late John, former Notre Dame star and line coach at Vanderbilt and Duquesne, has been made over into a guard from an end and is showing splendid promise. There are no old men back for the guard jobs, so the fight is an open one between Weibel, Kopf of Warren, Sobak, of Natrona and Bukey of Beaver.

Capt. Al Brandin, of Pasadena, Cal., will hold the center job. He's a fine defensive man and has seen no little service as a running guard. Bill Moore, of Wheeling; Avery, from Detroit; Gibson, of Slippery Rock, and Dick Brandt, of Perrysville, are reserve centers who are expected to come along.

HAMILTON PROMISING

The Ridge Port has May, O'Neil, Hamilton and Montgomery from last year's outlay of backs. Hamilton, according to J. L., is a second Tom Davies, fast, elusive and a dependable defense player.

Stan Pincura, young brother of the famous Penn State pair, is running the team from fullback and doing it very nicely, too. He's been ill this week and may be out of the Navy game, but is not expected to be out for longer than a week. Young Jim Marks, son of J. L., has shown fine ability as a halfback and a punter.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE $6,000 LIMB OF AN APPLE TREE—The boy I illustrated sitting on the limb of the apple tree will be given his college education with the money obtained from the sale of a single limb of the tree. He is the son of Louis A. Mood, who sold the limb to Paul Stark, of Louisiana, Mo., for $6,000. Stark is a famous orchardist who specializes in the production of the more unique varieties of fruits, and he also is owner of the "Caged Tree," which I illustrated last year. The limb was a bud sport which bore a deep solid-red apple that has become famous because of its early season coloring and ripening, and the large amount was paid for the exclusive right to propagate it. FASTED OFF 222 POUNDS OF WEIGHT—Richard Fausel, a hotel proprietor of North Dakota, in 1912 found himself at the inconvenient weight of 385 pounds. He went to a sanitarium and by fasting for 40 days managed to get rid of 136 pounds. Shortly thereafter, Fausel, still unsatisfied, embarked again on a fasting spree. This time he fasted for 90 days and succeeded in getting rid of an additional 102 pounds. Thus, within a period of a little more than four months, Fausel has dieted off 232 pounds, or nearly two-thirds of his original weight.

OL' BUGS SIZES UP SERIES

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—(Universal.)—The most important things about this series is that Connie Mack and Gabby Street are both old exhausted catchers.

Connie started when catchers grabbed them on the first bounce, and he now fires his outfielders for doing the same thing.

This gives Connie the edge because a play like that ain't liable to come up in this series.

Otherwise the teams are even except for the players.

Connie broke his leg in Pittsburgh in 1896 while sliding through the pitcher's box when he was running from first to third. In those days you didn't have to touch second if the umpire turned his head to flirt.

But now they have four umpires and the social restrictions are much looser.

Gabby used to catch for Walter Johnson when the fastest things in the league were Walter's hopper and a pop bottle.

He quit when he caught both of them at the same time.

We predict the Athletics will win four straight and if it wasn't for the schedule they might do it two at a time.

If we guess wrong then Damon Runyon has got another playmate.

on the sacks to sink the Leviathan.

"Barbee is a real slugger," said Laird, when he learned the Pirates had drafted the Hollywood star. "He hits balls out of every park in the Coast League. He has driven them over the left wall of the San Francisco park, which is 365 feet from the plate."

Barbee, moreover, is said to be a scrapper, and if that be true, he will be all the more welcome on a somewhat drab team. The drafted player is almost six feet in height and weighs about 180 pounds. The draft price on him is $7,500.

Only 15 players were drafted, the smallest number in years. The list follows:

American League—White Sox, Carey Selph, Houston, Tex.; St. Louis Browns, Westcott Kingdon, a shortstop from the Chattanooga Club of the Southern Association, New York, Frank Nekolo, a right-handed pitcher from Jersey City of the International League.

PANTHERS GET WORKOUT IN CHICAGO

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Headed for congenial old 1-Oh-Way where the tall corn and taller football players grow, the University of Pittsburgh's varsity grid squad stopped off here today for a session of practice at Stagg Field, home turf of the University of Chicago. The Panthers will depart from here tonight, heading for Davenport, Ia., where they'll drill tomorrow and then hike on to Iowa City to play Bert Ingerson's Iowa Hawkeyes Saturday afternoon.

Pitt has been stopping off here in Caponeville now for three consecutive years for workouts. In the past they've gone on to Nebraska. In fact, Stagg Field is getting to be almost a second home gridiron for Pitt.

Following their 61-0 run-over of Miami last week, the Panthers were able to take things a bit easy for this game. They drilled Monday and Tuesday and had a fairly heavy session before leaving Pittsburgh yesterday. It was reported that Coach Sutherland was far from pleased with the way in which his charges performed against Miami, but you may put that down as being the old hooey, for any time a team wallops another as bad as Pitt took poor Miami you can bet the coach isn't going to put the squawk on very heavy.

Iowa was booted out of the Big Ten a year or so back because of certain irregularities in its athletic system. The Hawkeyes are having to walk the well-known straight and narrow now, and the chances are they haven't been able to bring in very many tough football players.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

George Panka, Homestead heavyweight who hadn't boxed around here since before his days in Champion Max Schmeling's training camp at Conneaut Lake months ago, came back last night to box and punch his way to a cleancut victory over Roy Ace Clark, giant Negro, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock. He conceded 43½ pounds to his 240-pound foe who had boxed Primo Carnera, Arthur DeKuh and other well-known heavies never was in difficulty and won seven of the 10 rounds, the fifth being even and the fourth and eighth going to Clark. He paced the 10 rounds in fine style.

CLARK HURT EARLY

George twice staggered the big fellow in the opening round, the first time with a left hook and the second time with a right chop, and it looked as if he might finish a hurry. However, Clark finally got himself straightened out and was not in trouble again until the final round, when he doubled under a body blow. Meantime, he bled early from the nose and mouth and kept shifting from an orthodox to a southpaw stance and back again. Occasionally he slammed home a hard left to the body, but was too slow to follow up any momentary advantages.

It was a good win for Panka and should help to get him going around here again following his long layoff.

DURIS STOPS REED

Eddie Reed, Negro lightweight of Philadelphia looking considerably washed up in a fistic sense, took a bad beating throughout from Mickey Duris of Cleveland in the scheduled eight-round semi-final, which Referee Jack Henderson stopped after 1 minute 47 seconds of the fifth round with Reed helpless in a corner trying to ward off punishment. Duris, formerly of Johnstown but now with Jimmy Dunn, former pilot of Johnny Kilbane, looked better than ever although handicapped from the second round on by a cut left eye. He weighed 138 pounds against 136 for Reed.

Chuck Taggart of Butler, 176½, won a lucky foul victory over Frank Novak of the North Side, 193½, in their return bout. Referee Joe Keally stopping it and disqualifying Novak for hitting and staggering Taggart after the bell ending the fifth round, which neither boxer appeared to hear. Just before that Novak, who was fighting an uphill battle, had dropped the tired Taggart for a count of nine and had him ready for the finishing punch.

GATE ONLY $888

Mike Izzo of Lisbon, O., 150, dropped Silver Martini, of McKeesport, 156¼, for nine and then the full count in the third round of the opener.

The crowd was the poorest of the season and included many children, not permitted at fights under the commission's rules, who rushed the ringside section after the second bout. The gate totaled only $888, and the bouts marked the finish of the Bowl campaign. Freddie Lux and Jock Simco acted as judges, Natie Brown, the California heavyweight and his manager, Billy McCarney, were ringside spectators.

Between Rounds

Jack Thompson, formerly of Warren, O., now of the South Hills is under the management of Al Weiss. Weiss owns and Mike McTigue, the former middleweight boxer and ex-sheriff of Nome, Alaska, the local lightweight. He holds a win over Bobby Vogel and a draw with Joe Bazzone at the Motor Temple last season.

Carl Montebano, Billy Flanagan and Billy Brent are among those out with challenges to Buck McTiernan, who will resume boxing again shortly following a rest on a farm in the eastern part of the state. Frank Klaus manages both Montebano and Flanagan.

Phil Raymond, Baltimore lightweight who is going great guns throughout the East, while in Pittsburgh, Herb Blaustein, trainer of Vince Dundee in his manager, and he also has Bruce Schwartz the bantamweight under his wing.

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport is on the trail of an opponent for Jimmy Thomas in the windup of his second show of the season one week from tonight.

Lew Paluso, of Salt Lake City, a veteran lightweight, Khaki has been signed as the opponent of Frankie Klaus, of Erie, in the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

AMBRIDGE OUT TECH PRIMED TO GAIN TITLE FOR W. & J.

By JULIUS LEVIN

Ambridge High School, whose football team this season is being heralded by followers of the scholastic sport in the Beaver Valley as one of the best in the race for the championship of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League, owes much of its athletic achievements to the coaching of Moe Rubenstein, who is enjoying his third year as mentor. The former Fifth Avenue High School athlete has accomplished wonders during his three years at Ambridge.

Moe Rubenstein

The Beaver Valley school was in the throes of an athletic depression when Rubenstein took over the reins in 1929. Despite the dearth of first-class material his team that season won six games and lost two in a schedule that brought Ambridge against the eight strongest rivals in the valley.

With a year of coaching under his belt, Rubenstein started to place Ambridge on the scholastic map in 1930 when his eleven went through the season without meeting defeat nor being scored upon. This year the Rubenstein-coached eleven took up where it left off last season and as a result has won its first two games, scoring its third successive victory over Monaca by the score of 6-to-0 and a 19-0 victory over Rochester, a team that held the powerful Aliquippa eleven to an 8-6 score the week previous.

The two victories scored so far this season have given Ambridge a string of 14 consecutive triumphs on the gridiron under the coaching of Moe Rubenstein, a record that stamps it among the leaders in Western Pennsylvania. All told, Ambridge has won 20 out of its last 22 contests.

Besides turning out a contender for the football championship, Rubenstein's basketball team won its sectional title in the W. P. I. A. L. race. The Ambridge coach, in the hey-day of his career, was rated as one of the greatest basketball guards in the district.

Weirton (W. Va.) High School will be the attraction of Ambridge Saturday.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—The Big Ten Conference has suspended its eight-game football schedule rule and voted to permit any member to play at least one add-to-the-contest free season for charity.

Schooley, Reid Confer, Angle For Center

Charles Reid, coach of the Yellow Jackets, today is conferring with Roy D. Schooley, president and manager of the local International League Hockey Club, regarding plans for the 1931-32 season.

Although the Jackets got into the playoffs last season, they finished far below the spot in which Schooley sextets are accustomed to finish, and it is expected that certain veterans will be used as trading material in an effort to land younger skaters and make the locals a title contender from the start.

Gregg, Fraser, Fields, Beriett, Ouellette, McIntyre, Halliday and Proudlock are icemen most likely to be retained.

MACK IS EAGER TO ANNEX OPENER

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, Record-breaking Winners of Nine Pennants.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—You have read a lot of advance stories about this world series, but today speculation ends and realities begin for the Athletics and Cardinals will be out on the field batting.

I hope the weather will allow us to play the two games here without interruption.

Connie Mack

While I already have decided on our pitcher for the opening game, I kept his name a secret because it always is possible upon reaching the ball park that one may find certain conditions existing that will cause him to shift plans.

WANTS TO BAG OPENER

Both in 1929 and 1930 the Athletics won the first game, and it is only natural that I want to do so again this year.

In fact with the series starting away from home, I am more anxious to win this first game than ever before.

The Athletics have been beaten twice in world series. The Giants beat them in 1905 and the Braves in 1914, and we lost the first game in both of these series.

That is why we consider it lucky to win the first game, although in the games of 1911 with the Giants Mathewson beat Bender, 2 to 1, in the first game, but we rallied and won that series. That was the only exception.

Athletic players will take their positions with every confidence in their own mastery, although they believe they will be extended to the limit by the Cardinals.

They know that in the championship seasons of 1929, 1930 and 1931 and in the world series of the first two seasons they never failed once in a vital series.

WILLIAMS ONLY ROOKIE

We have the batting power, the fielding skill and the pitching to cope with the National League champions.

Every one of my regulars has been through world series fire before with the exception of Dibrell Williams, who this season replaced Boley as the club's shortstop, and Williams is as cool as a block of ice, and I will be very much surprised if the crowds and the importance of these games affect him adversely.

The spirit and condition of the Athletics scarcely could be improved. They played their game right up to the last of the present season, winning more games than any other Athletic team in history.

There is not a tired man on my staff, all being properly rested and in shape for arduous duty in these games.

The Athletics are ready.

A SHORT SERIES?

There also is a rumor, got out by the bears, that Connie Mack intends to use only Grove and Earnshaw in the series. That means Connie expects the series to last only four games. The Shibe brothers hope Connie is wrong.

Of course, it is possible for the A's to get through the series just using two pitchers. It also is possible for Marlene Dietrich to get through a picture without even showing her ankles — but you've never seen it done yet. The only reason Connie would have for just using a pair of flingers is so they can use the A's bullpen to put up extra seats. There's some strategy in that, at that.

It also seems to be the experts' opinion that the Cards will have a slight edge in the first two games because they'll be using the National League ball. I don't know about that. When the Card pitchers get Simmons, Foxx and Cochrane in front of them they'll wish they were pitching the new golf ball or else shooting peas.

WHERE'S THE DEPRESSION?

Of course, the National League horsehide is not quite so lively as the A. L. apple. But Al Simmons could lean against an old Civil War cannon ball and lift it back to Gettysburg.

There is only about 1-32nd of an inch difference in the cover of the National and American League balls. I don't know why the experts are worrying over such a trivial detail when an umpire's thick skin is twice as liable to make a difference in a series.

You know, if I was President Hoover, I'd move the White House out to St. Louis for this week and prove there isn't any depression. You hear tell of times being so tough they are building upper berths on park benches, etc., but around St. Louis lobbies and speakeasies (I've been thrown out of both this week) folks are begging to give up $6.60 for one seat.

In fact, so far as the demand for tickets is concerned, we are back in the Coolidge administration and even Roger Babson couldn't knock the scalpers' prices down.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

BROKERS IN ALL PARTS of the country are starting a movement to discourage the short selling of stocks. One of the leading Pittsburgh members of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday announced that it would not permit securities held for the accounts of its clients to be loaned for short selling purposes. This was accompanied by similar action by houses in other cities.

The practice of selling stocks short goes back

THE PRACTICE OF SELLING stocks short goes back far into the early history of security exchanges. This method of speculation is quite simple from the standpoint of the individual trader, although there are numerous technical details to a short transaction which must be taken care of by brokers.

A speculator, who expects the price of a stock to increase, buys it in the anticipation of selling at a later date at a higher price and making a profit. A speculator who expects the price of a stock to decline can sell the issue, even though he does not own any of it, in the anticipation of buying it later at a lower price.

Broker Handles Details

THE BROKER HANDLES the details. Every transaction on the New York Stock Exchange must be settled by the exchange of stock for cash on the following day. The customer has sold stock which he does not own, but the broker must make the delivery. To do this he borrows stock from some other broker to complete the transaction.

The broker for the short trader gets cash equal to the market value of the stock from the buyer. When he borrows the stock he gives the lender money equivalent to the value of the stock. The lender of the stock has the use of this money, so he must pay interest on it under ordinary conditions. If there are few borrowers of a particular stock the call money rate is paid as interest. If there is a large short interest and there are many borrowers a lower rate of interest may be paid on the money. In the cases of stocks with an exceptionally great short interest a premium is sometimes paid.

The short transaction is completed when the trader buys shares of the stock equal to the number he sold. The broker then pays back the stock to the lender and gets his money back.

Effect On the Market

OBJECTIONS ARE FOUND to short selling when it is done by professional traders who dump large blocks on the market with the express purpose of demoralizing prices. The short interest in the stock market probably accentuates the speed of declines, although it is doubtful if it can permanently depress prices below their natural levels. It must be remembered that the short seller must eventually buy to settle his account and that short covering sometimes stimulates advances in prices.

Short selling of stocks has many parallels in other types of business. The merchant who takes an order for goods which he does not have in stock is selling short. Grain dealers who, as part of their regular business must contract for crops in advance, follow the practice of making short sales to protect themselves against loss.

In recent discussions of short selling, a tendency has developed to differentiate between the short sale of a commodity as a part of a legitimate business transaction and the short sale of a stock for purely speculative purposes.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Rails Steady

RAILS STEADY IN IRREGULAR MARKET

Utility and Industrial Shares Fall and Rise; Steel Makes Comeback

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The public utility stocks dipped and rallied in a fairly active market today. Industrial stocks were pushed downward in the forenoon by another wave of selling, which was concentrated on United States Steel, American Telephone Consolidated Gas and other favorites, but recovered a good part of their early losses. Once again the rails set a good example of market stability, holding steadily in expectation of constructive developments at the conference of railroad presidents today.

Announcement of the suspension of an important stock exchange member was received with clamness in trading circles. Stocks of the leading industrial companies firming rather than displaying any special agitation over this announcement.

Union Pacific, New York Central and other well known rails moved ahead 1 to 2 points. The railroad presidents' conference was in agreement on major points in the big merger, and today recommended to the commerce commission the changing of minor details of the four-system consolidation.

Public utility stocks were unsettled near the start by heavy selling of Consolidated Gas and Columbia Gas, on rumors of a possible cut in the cash dividend of the latter company today. These shares later rallied.

Prices of the industrial shares swung backward and forward in a narrow range in the early afternoon. United States Steel registered a come-back from 70¾ to above 72. General Motors was again the weak spot, breaking under 23 for a new low for the year.

LONDON STEADY, PARIS STRONG

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(INS.)—Slightly higher prices for a number of gilt-edged issues were recorded at the close of the London Stock Exchange today. The pound sterling closed at $3.95, but reached $4.02 in individual trading.

Kelvinator Retires Outstanding Notes

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—The Kelvinator Corporation has retired all its outstanding 6 per cent notes due in 1936 at the call price of 105. The fiscal year ended September 3 will show net profit after all charges in excess of either 1929 or 1930.

Earnings in current year were such as to enable company to retire funded debt and double its cash on hand.

Dividend News Expected To Pick Up After Final Quarter of 1931

By B. C. FORBES

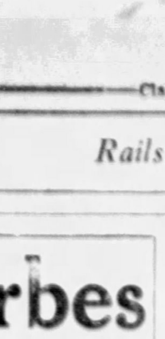
DURING THE QUARTER ended yesterday there were few unfavorable dividend announcements than in the two previous quarters.

There were, however, fewer favorable declarations.

On the whole, the 1931 dividend record thus far has not been inspiring. The final quarter is hardly likely to show improvement, but thereafter the dividend news is expected to be less discouraging.

DURING SEPTEMBER 55 cheerful dividend declarations were made, an improvement over the previous two months but a sad contrast with the 149 total of September a year ago. For the quarter the total was 133, compared with 142 during the June quarter and 267 during the first quarter. In the third quarter of last year there were 257 upward revisions. In the same period of 1929 there were 436 and in 1928, 336.

Last quarter's unfavorable changes totaled 431 against 434 in the previous quarter and 491 in the first quarter, all comparing very badly with 1930 and preceding years.



B. C. Forbes

THE FOLLOWING tables show the form taken by the favorable declarations this year and for the corresponding period of last year by industrial, public utility and railway companies:

1931	Ind.	P U	R R
Extra	221	24	5
Initial	93	11	0

Resumed	25	0	4

Totals	917	90	37

1931	Ind.	P U	R R.
Decreased	540	21	26
Omitted	393	19	19
Deferred	330	21	7

THE STATE OF MIND produced by so many dividend cuts is illustrated by the astonishment expressed when American Can this week declared the extra payment it customarily makes at this season. Wall Street is so reconciled to nothing but depressing news that anything whatsoever which indicates that faith in the future of the country has not been lost entirely is interpreted as extraordinary.

Yesterday again brought its quota of "new low records" for many stocks. Wall Street is in no mental condition to reason that the lower quotations go, the less likelihood of their going still lower and the greater their likelihood of recovery.

No stock market ever yet has maintained an unbroken downward movement. Nor will the present one.

SOME DAY the sun will break through the present clouds—clouds which most people seem to view through black—or blue—glasses.

Ernst Disgraces Himself by Eating With Fingers

CHAPTER XIX.

I work my way around and come on a group where a chartered accountant is airing his views. "Just think of it!" he is saying, all worked up. "A saddler! A saddler, mind you, and President of the Empire! Imagine it, a court levee and a saddler giving audience! It would make a cat laugh!"

He makes himself cough, he is so excited. "What do you think about it, my young warrior?" he says, patting me on the shoulder.

As a matter of fact, I have never given the matter a thought. I shrug my shoulders doubtfully. "Perhaps he knows a thing—"

The accountant looked at me fixedly for a moment. Then he chuckles. "I should say he does know a thing or two! No, no, my young friend. These things are inborn! 'A saddler!' If so, then why not a tailor or cobbler even?"

He turns again to the other. I dislike his talk; it goes against my grain to hear him speak so contemptuously of cobblers. They made as good soldiers as the finer folk, anyway. Adolf Bethke was a cobbler, for that matter—and he knew a sight more about war than a good many majors. It was the man that counted with us, not his occupation. I eye the accountant disparagingly. He is throwing about quotations now, and it may be well that he has ladled in culture with a spoon—but if it ever came to that again and someone had to bring me in under fire, I would sooner put my trust in Adolf Bethke.

DISAGREEABLE TALK

I am glad when at last we sit down to table. Beside me is a young girl with a swansdown boa around her neck. I like the look of her, but have not the faintest idea what I should talk to her about. As a soldier, one did not talk much, and to ladies not at all. The others are conversing freely, so I try to listen, in the hope of picking up an idea or two.

Farther up the table the accountant has just been explaining how if only we had held out a bit longer the war would have been won. Such bilge makes me almost sick; any soldier knows that we had no more munitions and no more men—and that's all there is about it. Opposite him is a woman talking about her husband who was killed, and from the way she goes on, one might think it was she had been killed and not he. Lower down, they are talking about securities and peace terms, and all of them, of course, know much better what should be done than the people who actually have to deal with the matter. A fellow with a hook nose is talking scandal about the wife of a friend of his, but with an air of such sanctimonious sham sympathy I should like to pitch my beer into his face as a reward for such ill-concealed malice.

All the talk makes me stupid in the head, and I am soon quite unable to follow any longer. The girl with the swan boa asks scornfully whether I became dumb out at the Front.

"Not entirely," I answer, and think to myself, I only wish Kosole and Tjaden could sit here among you; how they would laugh to hear the flapdoodle you peddle and so pride yourselves on! All the same, it riles me not to be able to show them in one telling thrust what I think. It would not rile Kosole, though. He would know well enough what to say. It would be pat and to the point.

At this moment—heaven be praised!—crisp, grilled chops appear on the table. I sniff. Real pork chops they are, fried in real fat too. The sight of them consoles me for all the rest. I lean over and secure a good one and begin chewing with relish. It tastes marvelous. It's a power of time since I last ate a fresh chop. In Flanders it was—we bagged a couple of suckling pigs—we ate them down to the very ribs one lovely, mild summer evening—Katczinsky was alive then—ach, Kat—Detering—a sight better they were than these fellows at home here. I prop my elbows on the table and forget everything around me, so clearly do I see them before me. Such tender little beasts too; we made potato cakes to go with them—and Kropp was there and Paul Baumer—yes, Paul—I neither hear nor see anything now, I lose myself in memories—

A giggle awakes me. About the table is dead silence. Aunt Lina has a face like a bottle of vitriol. The girl beside me is stifling a laugh. Everybody is looking at me.

EMBARRASSMENT

Sweat breaks out on me in streams. There I sit, just as we did then out in Flanders, absent-minded, both elbows on the table, the bone in my two hands, my fingers covered in grease, gnawing off the last scraps of the chop—But the others are eating cleanly with knife and with fork.

Red as a beet root, I look straight ahead and put down the bone. How could I so have forgotten myself? But, to tell the truth, I hardly know now how else to go about it. We always ate that way at the Front; at the best of times, we had only a spoon or a fork, certainly never a plate.

But there is anger, too, in my embarrassment—anger against this Uncle Karl, now beginning to talk so loudly of war loans; anger against all these people here that think so much of themselves and their smart talk; anger against the whole world, living here so cocksure with their knick-knacks and jiggery-pokery, as though the monstrous years had never been when one thing and one thing only mattered—life or death, and beyond that nothing.

Grimly, in silence, I stuff in all I can. I mean at least to be full. Then, as soon as I can, I make my way out.

In the lobby is the servant in the dress suit. I reach down my things. "We should have had you up the line too, you lacquered ape!" I spit. "You and the whole bunch here!" Then I slam to the door.

Wolf has waited for me outside the house. He leaps up on me. "Come, Wolf," I say, and suddenly know that it was not the affair with the chop that made me feel so bitter; but the fact that the same vapid, self-satisfied spirit as of old should still be lording it here and giving itself airs—"Come, Wolf," I repeat. "Those are not our sort. Come, let's go to our pals. It's better there, even if they do belch and eat with their hands. Come!"

SCHOOL AGAIN

We trot along, the dog and I; we run as hard as we can, faster and faster, panting, barking; we run like mad, with shining eyes—To the devil with them all!—But we live, eh, Wolf? We live!

Ludwig Breyer, Albert Trosske and I are on our way to school. Lessons are to begin again.

We were students at the Teachers' College when the war came, but no special examination was granted to us. The men of the grammar school who went fared much better. Most of them were able to take a special examination, either before they enlisted or when they came home on leave. The remainder, who did neither the one nor the other, have now to start their schooling again like the rest of us. Karl Broger is one of these.

We pass by the cathedral. The green sheets of copper that once covered the spire have been taken away and replaced by strips of gray felt. They look mildewed and shabby, so that the church has almost the air of a factory. The sheets of copper were melted down to make shells.

In a winding alley to the west of the cathedral stands the two-storied Teachers' College. Almost opposite is the grammar school; behind it the river and the embarkment with the lime trees. Before we enlisted, these buildings made up our world. After that, it was the trenches. Now we are here again. But this is no longer our world; the trenches ousted it.

Synopsis

Ernst, who enlisted when a schoolboy, tells the postwar story of a group of war comrades who march home when peace is made, to find everything changed—themselves most of all. Ernst looks up his friends, who are playing cards at the barracks. They learn that Seelig, a former sergeant major whom they hold responsible for the death of a comrade, is now bartender at a local saloon. Thither they go en masse, and Kosole, a special friend of the dead man, thrashes Seelig. Next day the men draw greatcoats and clothes from the quartermaster. Then Ernst is invited to dinner at his wealthy uncle's. He feels awkward and ill at ease, wholly out of place at such a function.

DAILY SHORT STORY

'Simile Sam'

Man Uses Clever Simile in Proposing to Girl

"What do you think?" Mrs. Hutton asked.

She had just arrived at the wide and shaddy terrace of the Silver Lake community house, where a dozen or so of the cottagers had gathered.

"I think," Tom Carlton replied, "that it is too hot for tennis, and thank you for being interested in my thoughts."

Mrs. Hutton shook a finger reprovingly at him.

"Still working hard to become the Silver Lake wit, aren't you, Tom?" She turned to some of the others.

"The Stillwell cottage has been sold," she announced, quite as though announcing something of more than ordinary importance. Mrs. Hutton's husband was the developer of the Silver Lake cottage colony and handled the real estate business therewith.

"Well, well, that's news," Mrs. Grant said, "who bought it, Lucy?"

"A man named Samuel Ditson——"

"Sam Ditson? Is he from Philadelphia?" Tom Carlton shouted.

"Yes. Do you know him, Tom?"

"Do I know him? I roomed with him at Princeton. Ye gods, folks, we're in for it now—Simile Sam is the sort of a guy who interests you at first and then bores you forever after."

"I'm sure my husband wouldn't sell property to anyone here at the lake who wasn't all right," Mrs. Hutton defended.

INQUIRES ABOUT MAN

"Oh, Sam's all right, good family, comfortable fortune, and all that."

"Why," Natalie Riordan asked, "is he called Simile Sam? Something he did in college, Tom?"

"He's lousy with similies," Tom informed her, trying to secretly hold her hand, which she removed from his reach. Almost all of the young men tried to hold Natalie's hand—and the older men wanted to do so.

"Oh, I know," Natalie broke in, "he is the sort who always says 'As welcome as the flowers in May' or 'As homely as three hedge fences,' and imagines that he has said something brilliant and original."

"You're getting warm, but he isn't as trite as that, beauteous one," Tom declared.

"I'd brain you for calling me 'beauteous one' all the time, Tom Carlton, if it wasn't for one drawback," Natalie cried.

"And what, beauteous one, is the one drawback?" Tom asked.

"One has to have brains to be unbrained——"

After the laugh subsided Mrs. Wagner asked, "What does he do with those simile things, Tom?"

"He spouts 'em, he springs 'em without the least provocation!"

"I don't believe he will upset us so very much," Mrs. Hatton murmured. The conversation drifted around to other topics. Tom and Natalie started down to the lake for a sail, Tom, as usual, trying to convince Natalie that her happiness lay solely in becoming Mrs. Tom Carlton.

CHANGES NAME

A week later Mr. Samuel Ditson was established in the Stillwell cottage with one servant, a Jap. He promptly changed the name of the cottage from "Covue," which the Stillwells had thought to be clever, to "The Lark's Nest," which Sam considered to be cleverer.

The first day that Mr. Hutton brought him over to the community house and began introducing him, Sam lived up to Tom's name for him—Simile Sam.

"Welcome to Silver Lake," Tom greeted him.

Sam eyed Tom suspiciously.

"Yeah?" he said, "I know you of old, Tom Carlton. I'll bet I'm as welcome as a fly in your coffee!"

A few minutes later he was telling of driving to Atlantic City in an open car, in his dinner clothes, when a thunderstorm came up.

"Within three minutes," he said, "I was as wet as a speakeasy!"

Several others laughed this time, but Tom didn't.

During the few hours Sam was at the Community House, getting acquainted, he perpetrated at least a score of similes. That evening when Tom was dancing with Natalie she reprimanded him when he spoke slightingly of Sam.

"At first, at first," Tom answered, "but after a while they get you nervous. You're afraid to say anything for fear he will spring one of his similes. They grow on you—and they weary you."

Natalie wouldn't believe it.

Sam came in about this time and begged a dance. Mrs. Wagner and her husband started to dance.

"Watch the poor soul," Natalie whispered to Sam. "I know it is mean to criticise, but the dear simply wasn't built for dancing."

"She's as graceful as a crab," said Sam.

NATALIE GETS ANGRY

Sam came to have the same idea about Natalie Riordan that Tom Carlton—and many other young men—possessed, and that was that she would make a wonderful wife for someone. The someone Sam had in mind was himself.

He seemed to be progressing well enough. That is, they were friendly enough. But so were the others with Natalie, and none seemed to have any advantage over another. Several were proposing regularly.

One day when Natalie wasn't feeling any too well Sam was trying to get in a few words of love-making. They were in the summer house on the lawn of her home. Little Kitty Warren, from the neighboring cottage, was playing there, running in and out, asking questions of Natalie, showing her the new clothes she was making for her doll.

Sam was being interrupted continually, and Natalie did not seem interested in anything he was saying. He was in the midst of telling Natalie that he considered all the years of his life to be blank, B. N.—meaning "Before Natalie"—when little Kitty popped in for advice about turning her doll's hat up on the side or back. Natalie advised her quite gravely and missed hearing Sam's remark. When Kitty ran out again Sam was sore.

"That kid," he said, "is as annoying as cracker crumbs in bed!"

"Oh, Sam for Pete's sake, do try some other form of expression than those silly similes," Natalie cried, and added, "No, I don't want to go canoeing, I don't want to do anything. Please trot along and let me rest. I want to go into the silences. Your smiles drive me daffy."

"Tut, tut, sweetheart, be nice to Sam. You're as grouchy as a box-office man!"

Natalie gave him a withering glance, murmured, "Excuse me, I must run in," and started for the house.

Then little Kitty Warren, left alone at home, accidentally set the cottage afire and in her fright jumped from the bedroom window, breaking her leg. Sam was the first one there. He paid no heed to the burning cottage but, discovering what had happened to Kitty, skillfully bound her leg in splints made of croquet mallet handles and had her in the bottom of his canoe within 10 minutes. He paddled her across the lake to the nearest doctor and all was practically well again. The doctor was loud in his praise of Sam, explaining that Sam used keen judgment in taking her in the canoe rather than jarring the compound fracture in an automobile.

Natalie thanked Sam effusively because she was fair-minded and also loved little Kitty.

It was near the end of the season when Kitty was able to be about on crutches. The Warren cottage had been repaired. Sam was over back of the cottage in the rose garden, amusing Kitty.

"Yes, indeed."

"Those roses," Sam said, impressively, "are almost as sweet and beautiful as Natalie Riordan."

SAM IS CURED

Natalie, standing back of a great syringa bush, heard this. That night at the dance she was extremely gracious to Sam, so gracious that he took her down to the lake and proposed.

"Sam," Natalie said, "you are a darling. I don't mind your similes at all—and—and I overheard what you said to Kitty about those roses and about me and—and I'm going to say 'Yes' to you."

Sam, being clever, never let Natalie know that he had seen her back of the syringa bush, which was what spurred him to make his simile about her.

"Darling," Sam cried, "you make me happy—as happy as, as happy as—anyway I love you, darling I love you the way a—as much as—"

He paused for a moment. Then he kissed her.

"I'm licked—I'm cured. Winning you has put an end to my similes because there's no simile for your sweetness and beauty."

They both said a lot more, but it was pure "mush talk," such as lovers use, the world over.

A New Day in Politics

Judge Macfarlane's Concession Is Another Indication of a Change for the Better.

As an evidence of the new day in political and public life in Allegheny County, even Judge James R. Macfarlane appears responsive to the weight of public opinion. At last Judge Macfarlane has decided that the recount court, over which he presides, shall center its attention in the canvass of disputed ballot boxes on the candidacies over which there is question, that there may be prior to the November election some light on who was actually nominated in September.

Written request from candidates was required before Judge Macfarlane would take such action, and that was immediately forthcoming.

Under the law and the precedents it may be that revelations of the recount cannot be operative in determining the names to go on the November ballot, and only lay down the basis for a contest. But if the public can be shown that a man not honestly entitled to nomination is running for office the public will be armed with information which it can use as a corrective guide without recourse to the courts later.

That was the point Judge Macfarlane apparently failed for some time to see as the recount court dawdled along with its work. Apologists for Judge Macfarlane, themselves steeped in befogging law, evidently thought more of the letter than the intent of law, and could not realize that justice and law are not always the same.

The dignity of any court is important, but paramount is action toward the goal of quick and sure justice. That goal was not being attained through the original course of Judge Macfarlane.

Beautify the Wharves

Proprietors of downtown parking garages protest that it is unfair for the city to go into business in competition with them. They say present parking facilities are in excess of needs.

There is also another objection to the parking plan. The wharves can be put to better use by making parks of them, in which people may rest and enjoy the view.

Pittsburgh is not as beautiful as it could and should be. The water front is especially ugly. Why not plant lawns and trees and flower plots on the spacious areas fronting the Monongahela and Allegheny in the Golden Triangle? Why not set out benches?

Pretty nearly every big city except Pittsburgh has a public square or breathing spot in its business district. We need one as much as any other place. We need it more than we need the dimes that Director Lang proposes to collect from the parked autos.

More people would benefit by turning the water front into a park than by utilizing it for parking cars.

A School for Parents

Fathers and Mothers May Learn Valuable Lessons in Miss Boyce's Classes.

We can see great opportunities for good in the new school for parents to be conducted at the Taylor Allderdice High School by Miss Ella Ruth Boyce, director of public kindergartens.

The plan is for fathers and mothers to attend evening classes at which they will present their problems and get advice as to how to meet them.

It is suggested that the school may be helpful in answering just such questions as how to persuade the children to eat spinach or to go to bed cheerfully at the proper time.

The psychologists and experts on the rearing of children have a good deal to say on such matters, and their advice will be consulted.

But the classes should be helpful if only because of the opportunity they will offer for perplexed parents to get together and compare notes.

Playwrights' Chance

The drama is a form of literature in which it is extremely difficult to obtain recognition. A thousand obstacles must be surmounted before an obscure author can get his play presented.

This makes the offer of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players to produce the best one-act plays submitted by residents of Allegheny County an opportunity not to be overlooked. The Theresa L. Kaufmann Theater, in which the plays will be performed, is admirably equipped.

Pittsburgh is "a good show town." There is keen interest here in dramatic affairs. Hence the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players' offer should result in the submission of many manuscripts. Perhaps there will be some masterpieces among them.

An Accident Peak Month

October's Bad Record Can Be Improved With Concerted Attention on Safety.

During the last 10 years there have been more industrial accidents in Pennsylvania in March and October than in any other months.

With the slogan, "Help Knock Off the Peaks," the Department of Labor and Industry conducted a safety drive last March. It was remarkably successful. Accidents fell to the lowest level ever recorded in that month.

Let us knock off the October peak, too. Let us reduce industrial accidents this month to a lower level than was attained in March.

The Western Pennsylvania Safety Council is to conduct a campaign of education. We hope every industry in the Pittsburgh district will energetically co operate.

Love's Acid-Tests

It is always a shock to a man to start making love to a harmless looking little thing, and then discover that her intentions are "honorable."

* * *

A man doesn't particularly mind getting engaged these days provided the girl understands clearly that it is not to go as far as a wedding.

There are a hundred ways of killing love, but the most modern and popular method appears to be by suffocating it to death with the lethal gas of continuous kissing.

Some day there will be a great monument erected in honor of the man who comes home promptly, every night, in time for dinner. It will be dedicated to "The Unknown Husband."

A wife is never so much surprised to discover that her husband is flirting with another woman, as she is to discover that any other woman should find him sufficiently romantic to flirt with.

The "eternal triangle" is out of date, these days. As soon as the woman discovers it, she promptly turns it into a fourdome.

About every four months, a man is "through with women for life!"—and then, somehow, he always meets another woman who is "absolutely different."

We know why men always seek a wall-table in a restaurant, why a dog turns around lying down, and why a child is afraid of the dark—but nobody has yet discovered what atavistic instinct makes every woman subconsciously think of herself as "cute."

* * *

Sometimes a woman sheds bitter tears for the kiss she gave and should have withheld—but, more often, for the kiss she withheld and MIGHT have given.

Most men would like to have the arms of an octopus when it comes to making love to a lot of women—but they would find the legs of a centipede far more useful, when it came to escaping.

* * *

Next to chewing gum, there is nothing that sticks to a woman quite so persistently as the memory of having made a fool of herself.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Earl Carroll, since his graduation from song writing to theatrical producing, has been the Rialto's lone wolf. He did not run with the pack. Single-handed he has faced almost every conceivable obstacle—from sudden desertion by backers to a year in Atlanta.

In appearance Earl is a guileless, soft-voiced esthete whose wide eyes seem perpetually saucered in innocence. No one would think of him as author of a flaming sign board heralding: "Earl Carroll, premier authority on feminine beauty," just to annoy a rival producer who passed it daily.

Only those who have felt the nip of his fangs, know that Carroll is the lone wolf who fights. Sometimes he has to be cornered but in every scrimmage he has proved a dangerous foe. Many times his hopes have crumbled about him. Yet he rises Phoenix like from the figurative ashes.

When he built and opened his first theater nine years ago, his initial effort, an ambitious allegory called "Bavu," flopped miserably, leaving his angels cold. Two other clean little dramas met the same fate. Then he turned to snappy revues and produced a ribald row of money-making successes.

There followed the chain of catastrophes winding up in the producer being shackled and carried off semi-conscious to a federal prison. Broadway shook its head and sounded taps. Carroll returned a forlorn, hollow-eyed wreck who walked back streets at night in solitary dismay.

In a very short time he not only produced three shimmeringly smashing revues but has rebuilt his theater into what is admitted the most elaborately sumptuous playhouse in America, opening with a box office hit.

His modern mosque offers endless innovations such as the elimination of the call boy broadcasting to dressing rooms, a view of audience reaction by the stage manager through powerful lenses and an official box with a private door to the stage for such famous guests, for instance, as the Prince of Wales.

Magazine writers are cupping heads for endless staring out workroom windows these days. Fashioners of fiction face the bleakest era of their careers. No periodical is immune. Depressing rumors circulate the literary world. Story prices have been slashed to the bone and many magazines, instead of buying, are using only reserve supply. Several topnotchers have withdrawn entirely from the market to await brighter times. Coupled with all this is the report that a number of high priced magazines will parachute to 10 cents shortly.

Berzelius Mastered Inorganic Chemistry

By Archibald Henderson

Some men seem endowed with a natural aptitude for working with their hands and inventing such apparatus as they need. Such a man was Berzelius. His equipment was exceedingly meager, his laboratory little more than a lean-to. A couple of tables, a blow-pipe, a small furnace and a sand-bath, a few bottles and a barrel of water. With this ludicrously inadequate equipment, he succeeded in making himself the most famous of European chemists.

Joen Jakob Berzelius was born on August 29, 1779, on a farm at the village of Vaefversunda, Sweden. He was the son of a schoolmaster; and, being left an orphan at the age of 9, he suffered privations and had few opportunities. As a lad he became intensely interested in chemical studies and, after many difficulties, succeeded in taking his degree at the University of Upsala. In 1802 he received his degree as doctor of medicine; but he privately continued to carry on his chemical studies and researches. In 1806 he was appointed lecturer in chemistry at the Military Academy in Stockholm, and the following year became professor of medicine and pharmacy. Eight years later he became professor of chemistry at Stockholm, and from 1818 until his death, was secretary of the Stockholm Academy of Science.

At the age of 22 Berzelius attracted wide attention by his work concerning the action of an electric current on salts. Once he got well under way with his researches, he centered his attention on inorganic chemistry, which owes its foundation and growth to his labors. He discovered three chemical elements, cerium, selenium and thorium, and was the first scientist to prepare and exhibit samples of many of the rare metals, notably columbium, tantalum, and silicon. It was in his tiny little workshop that the atomic weight of the greater number of elements were discovered by him. It has been said that no chemist has added to that science so many carefully determined facts as Berzelius.

Berzelius was famous, less for the discovery of facts, however, than for the formulation of laws. In 1812 he put forward a general theory of chemical combinations, based on the assumption that the atoms of the elements are charged with electricity, some being electro-positive and some electro-negative. This classification long prevailed, but before Berzelius' death was superseded by another. Berzelius never abandoned faith in his classification; and it finds its justification in present-day theories according to which all matter is electro-magnetic, consisting of positive and negative electrical charges.

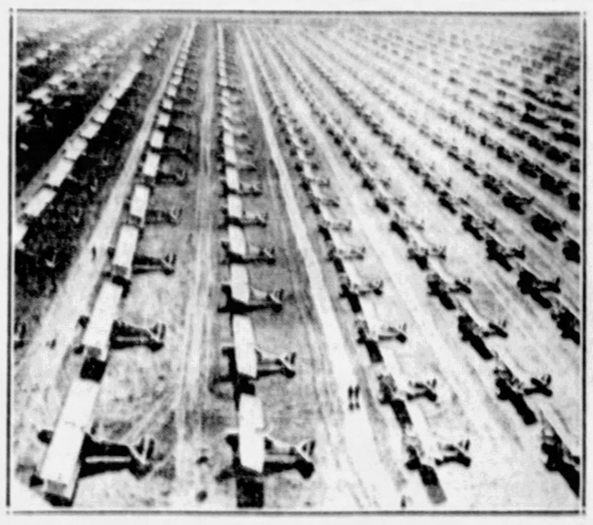
Italy Is Ready

And That Explains, in Part, Mussolini's Power.



SOME OF THE FIGHTING AIRCRAFT THAT MUSSOLINI HAS BUILT FOR ITALY. EACH SMALL DOT A FIGHTING MACHINE.

Just to remind the United States that we really ought to take a serious interest in our fighting air fleet these pictures are published.

The picture at the top shows 800 ITALIAN FIGHTING PLANES, OR AS MANY OF THEM AS COULD BE GOT IN ONE LITTLE PICTURE.

Mussolini believes in KEEPING READY, and in that fact resides a large part of the power of Italy, of Mussolini himself, and the respect that Europe feels for Mussolini and for what he says.

When Mussolini speaks, he does not speak idly. He has back of him machines that will make good his words. Like the late Theodore Roosevelt, he realizes that words without deeds are useless.

There is the possibility of many interesting deeds in these 800 fighting aircraft.

They could destroy Paris or Berlin in an hour, beginning and finishing the work in the same morning on which the order to destroy might be given.

War is not what it used to be—in fact, it never has been what it "used to be."

There was a time when the knight or king, in his steel armor, mounted on horseback, with his long lance, could defy 100 peasants in their leather jackets.

MUSSOLINI HIMSELF DOES WHAT HE MAKES OTHERS DO. HERE HE IS PREPARING FOR HIS FLIGHT IN THE GREAT ITALIAN AIR MANEUVERS.

Their arrows and stones could not injure his armor. Then came powder and bullets. The knight took off his armor, and the king, who used to ride out proudly, stayed at home while others did the fighting, now become too dangerous.

The airplane came, and little Switzerland with no navy, might create secretly (or publicly, for that matter) a powerful air fleet. And launching it, at the same time as she made a declaration of war, she might humiliate and conquer a nation 50 times greater than herself.

The French, for instance, most powerfully equipped nation in Europe, could say to Mussolini as they look at his line of airplanes, "Your fleet is small compared with ours. If you should attack us with those 800 airplanes, we would retaliate with our 5,000 FIGHTING AIRCRAFT, and not leave a large city or small village in Italy intact."

To that Mussolini could reply, "Yes; but be wise and do NOT attack Italy. For all that you could do with your 5,000 planes wouldn't do you much good, AFTER PARIS, MARSEILLES, BORDEAUX AND A DOZEN OF YOUR OTHER GREATEST CITIES HAD BEEN WIPED OUT."

A Brilliant British statesman said not long ago, "Of course, Great Britain is polite to France. Why not, with 5,000 French airplanes aimed at our cities and able to destroy them in a morning?"

The nations of Europe, in fact, should all be polite to each other.

The start of another war would be such a disaster as even the greatest criminal would hesitate to bring upon the world.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

People often ask too much and expect too much in the way of favors from employes.

If they have friends connected with manufacturing concerns they think they should be able to purchase goods at reduced prices.

If a friend is employed by a business advice firm they seek some free information and often are offended if refused such aid.

Persons employed in retail stores are often asked to supply goods to their friends at employes' prices.

Business tips of various kinds are asked by close friends of those who are employed where such information is possible to be obtained.

Newspapermen are frequently asked to withhold information derogative to certain persons and their friends.

When friends are implicated in something they desire to keep from husbands or wives or other members of the family the reporter who finds out is asked to "forget it."

A personal plea is made that news be suppressed on account of mental pain it might cause.

Every newspaper man desires to do legitimate favors for friends but his duty is first to the paper and policies that employ him and news should be printed.

System of Light Control To Be Retimed; East End, Shadyside Signals Linked

Pittsburgh's Better Traffic Committee and the Bureau of Traffic Planning are considering many changes to be made in the traffic system of the East Liberty district, including re-timing of light controls and increased speed limits. It has been pointed out that the changes are a move to forestall new parking restrictions in the district.

Lewis W. McIntyre, city traffic engineer, has announced that:

"The speed rate will probably be increased to 15 miles an hour through the district. This speed approaches the maximum in efficient street use."

Present plans provide for linking the East Liberty 18-intersection signal system with the Shadyside system.

The 60 day trial for one way traffic on Aiken and Negley avenues, East Liberty, began yesterday. From now until further notice by the Safety Department, traffic on Aiken, between Center and Fifth avenues, is to be only northbound and on Negley avenue between the same streets, southbound.

Randolph street, also in East Liberty, is now one-way between Penn avenue and Eva street. There will be no parking on the east side of this street at anytime during the 60 day test.

MOVING OF ZOO TO FRICK WOOD OPPOSED

Park Chief Holds Present Location Good Despite Humane Society Protests

Although an investigation is being made in order to ascertain whether or not to move the city's zoo from Highland Park to Frick Woods, Supt. of Parks James Moore said:

"We have no intention of moving the zoo. We have a good location where we are now and I think it would be foolish to move it."

The investigation was started when a taxpayer wrote to Council, stating that if Frick Woods were used it would place the animals in their natural habitats, and the zoo would be similar to that in Washington.

Councilmen Clifford B. Connelly and John M. Phillips, the latter former state game commissioner, have been appointed a committee to inspect the location by President John S. Herron, of the Council, and report as soon as possible on the use of the woods for a future home for the animals.

Representatives of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society and the Isaak Walton League have stated that conditions at the Highland Zoo are such that several animals have died from lack of sunshine and fresh air.

Councilman Phillips, who previously recommended to the Council that the zoo be transferred to South Park, commenting on the possibility of Frick's Woods as a zoo site, said:

"The first thing that would have to be done would be to cut down thousands of trees in order to furnish the animals with sunlight. I doubt whether this plan would be entirely feasible, but future events will decide that."

LIBERTY SCHOOL TO BE RAZED

One of East Liberty's educational landmarks will pass within the next year, with erection of a new building to replace the present Liberty School, built in Ellsworth avenue, near South Negley avenue, in 1872. Approval of the architect's proposed plans for the new $400,000 building was given by the property and supplies committee of the Board of Education last week.

The Liberty School District was organized in 1867. The first school building in the district was a two-room affair near Chester and Sheridan avenues, which was built in 1836.

The present building has 17 rooms, but at the time of its completion only four rooms were used and residents of the district complained of its size and cost.

2 SPANS URGED IN HOMESTEAD AND PITCAIRN

Jobless Aid Cited in Pleas Made to Commissioners; River Inspection Made

Two new bridge projects are under consideration by the County Commissioners and the Allegheny County Emergency Association. A committee of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange has presented to the commission a report on a Pittsburgh-Homestead high level bridge, following inspection of the location of piers in the Monongahela River relative to such a bridge's effect on navigation.

The Exchange Committee consists of A. O. Ackard, Carnegie Steel Company; C. C. Bunton, Pittsburgh Coal Company; Phil Kussart, Monongahela and Ohio Dredging Company; John S. Faddis, Wheeling Steel Company, and James Rankin, Jones & Laughlin Steel Company.

PITCAIRN PROJECT

The Emergency Association is considering a request for financial aid in the building of a 24-foot concrete bridge over Wall Avenue Run, Pitcairn. According to the request, the Borough Council would supply material for the work and provide for the opening of two streets in West End.

The proposed bridge would extend from Wall avenue to the McCalmont plan and would provide access to the business district.

AID FOR JOBLESS

Councilman Backus explained: "Erection of this bridge would give work to borough unemployed and also be the means of starting growth of a new residential district."

N. BRADDOCK SPAN

H. W. Haney, of Terrace, Pa., has suggested that a new high level bridge be built across the Monongahela River at North Braddock to replace the old low level Rankin Bridge. The bridge would extend from Duquesne boulevard, North Braddock, to Bell avenue, Mifflin Township.

LINCOLN AVENUE PROTESTS ON CITY HOSPITAL UNHEEDED

NEIGHBORHOOD HARM DENIED BY MAITS

Protests of Citizens Charge Bad Effect on Children And Real Estate Values

Health Director C. B. Maits can see no reason for the objections raised by the Lincoln District Civic Club against the proposal that the city purchase the home of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, 1625 Lincoln avenue, and convert it into a municipal hospital for social diseases.

The civic club is protesting on the grounds that the hospital would have a bad influence on the children of the neighborhood and tend to lower real estate values.

Dr. Maits stated:

"Notice was received from Mayview that it could no longer handle cases sent by Morals Court, and new facilities would have to be obtained. The home of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd was offered to the city for $250,000 and an investigation showed that it would be suitable. Later the city architect made another investigation and found that the home could be bought and remodeled more reasonably than a new building could be erected.

"The main objections to the use of the property for a hospital seem to be that it would have a bad moral effect on the children and lower property values.

"The children need never know what kind of a hospital it is, there are nearly 11 acres of ground and the main building sits back from the street so that the patients would never be seen. I can see no logical reason for the objections."

BRADDOCK FUND FOR RELIEF DEPLETED

Association Helping Needy Must Cease to Function Unless Money Is Provided

The Braddock Relief Association, which in less than a year has furnished aid to an average of 350 families a month and given out more than 3,000 orders for food and clothing, will cease to function unless additional funds are forthcoming within the next 30 days, it has been announced.

Henry Wagner, president; W. J. Caughey, secretary, and William C. Roderus, treasurer, are scheduled to meet with business and professional men of the town and interested citizens this week to discuss the matter. It is their hope that some means will be found to continue the relief work.

All funds thus far received have been used to help relieve distress in the boroughs of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin. Assistance is given only after personal investigation is made of every application for help. Last winter the American Legion Post 99 of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin gave $1,200 to the fund.

EAST BOROUGHS JOIN IN FIRE PREVENTION

Wilkinsburg and Homestead Active in Movement Urged In Appeal of President

Wilkinsburg will join with other East Boroughs districts in observing National Fire Prevention Week designated by President Hoover from October 4 to 10. Fire Chief Jeffries has made the following announcement:

"The loss from fire is of special interest to business men. As a result of a survey made some time ago it was determined that 21 factories or mercantile establishments burn every day. From the same survey it was estimated that of every hundred industrial establishments that burn, 11 suffer extensive reductions in credits, 17 fail to issue financial statements after the fire, 26 register large losses in business, and 43 never resume operations. In other words, almost one-half of the business houses that burn never reopen their doors, and their employes must seek other jobs. That is why business men are interested in fire losses.

SUGGESTIONS MADE

"Here are a few suggestions for making both life and property safer from the ravages of fire:

"Begin by clearing out all useless material and rubbish.

HOMESTEAD JOINS DRIVE

Fire officials in the Homestead district also are launching an active campaign against fire loss. Burgess Kenneth Lean, of Munhall, has received the following letter from State Fire Marshal J. W. Morgan:

"October 4 to 10 has been designated as Fire Prevention Week. We earnestly ask that in the interest of conservation of the life and property in these depressing times you point out the importance of eliminating fire hazards and the need of a reduction of the loss of fire by recommending an inspection of all buildings and premises and the removal of all conditions inviting fire."

Workmen Routed by Bees On Pitt Cathedral

A swarm of yellow-jacket bees make their nest on the top of the Cathedral of Learning, 38 floors above the street. During hot weather they swarm about to such an extent that at times it is impossible for workmen, who are putting the finishing touches on the top of the building, to continue their labor.

The bees make their nest in the tubing of the material lift shaft, about 10 feet above another part of the building.

When the sun strikes this shaft all of them seem to leave their home at the same time and cover large parts of the top coping so that the stone cannot be seen.

During his stay he enrolled 2,600 new members in the church and took an active part in the civic affairs of East Liberty. A $250,000 annex was built on the church. He will deliver his last sermon here October 11.

The new pastor is coming from an even larger church, where he went 14 years ago from Lima, O. He is said to have made 3,500 pastoral calls.

The official announcement of the change was made this week by Bishop Herbert Welch, of Pittsburgh, at the annual Pittsburgh Methodist Episcopal conference in Indiana, Pa.

NIGHT SOCCER TO MAKE BOW THIS WEEK

Pittsburgh Celtics to Engage Tarentum United in League Battle at Sanders Field

By TOM BIRKS

Getting away to a good start, the Central Pittsburgh Soccer League certainly gave the East End fans plenty of action last Saturday, and the coming week-end again finds a banner card listed.

This week-end will find league soccer having its first night game. Manager Tom Edwards, of the Pittsburgh Celtics, having leased Sanders field for his home games.

Tarentum United, the newly admitted club, will be the attraction at the Aspinwall grounds.

ROVERS AT DOUGLAS

The other games carded find the Pittsburgh Rovers traveling to the Westinghouse Stadium to meet Clan Douglas, while the Union Switch and Signal eleven meets Westinghouse at Turtle Creek. The fourth game finds the National Tube aggregation meeting the German Sport Club at Sullivan field.

Last Saturday's tilts indicate that the leading soccer loop of the district will provide a keen race for its followers. The Union Switch and Signal eleven provided the punch that Jack Campbell had been working on throughout the pre-season training period.

With the departure of Eicher, Campbell is faced with the problem of getting another outside player. Eicher's sudden departure gives the league a new angle to consider. Eicher has played in all of the pre-season games with the Switch team and seemed to be satisfied. However just before the game he reported sick but reports indicate that he will soon be wearing the blue and white of the German Sport Club.

FAIL TO IMPRESS

The Rovers and the Celts failed to impress the large crowd that watched the opening league game at Leslie Park.

Barrett could do little and both clubs missed numerous opportunities to score. Manager McClurg has lined up a good defense in Murray and Thompson. Both boys kicked well and never hesitated in their clearances. However Boylan could be used at center half. Boyle does not pass the ball to the wings with the finesse that Boylan uses and the speed of the wingers was never utilized.

Clan Douglas as the defending champion was not extended in the game with Tarentum. Frank Mincher has all of the old standbys back in uniform and from appearances Douglas should repeat. Of course with eight clubs in the loop injuries may ruin the chances of a contender.

THREE CLUBS SHINE

From the opening week's playing, the writer feels that the Switch, Douglas and the Rovers are going to fight it out for the championship. Westinghouse is composed of veterans who will not complete the season. Younger blood will have to be injected into the lineup while the Tubers under the leadership of Bill Montgomery, also is composed of players that have been flashing across local soccer fields over a period of many years.

The German Sport Club has engaged Sullivan Field for its home games and the introduction of soccer in the Bloomfield district should be a good move. There is little doubt that the German Club is the most scientific club in the Pittsburgh district, the players all have the moves but lack the dash and finish to get goals. The old country science is on tap but a little American bustle is needed to complete the job.

GRID ELEVENS CLASH SUNDAY

The East Pittsburgh independent football team will swing into action on its home grounds Sunday, when the Dan Burns club will appear at the Quarry stadium. East Pittsburgh failed to make a particularly fine showing in its battle with West View, and it is probable that Coach Paull and Manager Don McGlashan will institute a shakeup in an effort to inject some pep into their outfit.

McKeesport fans are well satisfied with the showing of the McKeesport Olympics, and they expect the Tube City outfit to continue in its fine stride when it meets the Ronneys at the Bridgeville Speedway field on Sunday.

This is going to be a battle of giants, for both aggregations are loaded up with college material. The work of Ganzy Benidict and Hichberger should give the Tube City fans something to become enthused over. The former Tech star has been in every play, and his tackling has been deadly.

Hooks Carrol and Peeny Newlin could not get started in the mud last Sunday, and the strategy of Hymie Goldberg was open to question on many occasions. A driving rain is not a help in running double and triple passes, and this is what Goldberg seemed to be trying.

This week East End fans will see a real lightweight game at the Washington boulevard grounds, when Oakland Community meets the East Liberty Papales.

While the Olympics are battling at Bridgeville, the Linwood club will make a trip to Rainbow Gardens, to meet the Irwin Scholastics.

New Sunday School Course Introduced

The Christian Life Sunday school course to be introduced Sunday in the Messiah Lutheran Church, Homewood-Park, will have public school gradings and departmental divisions.

Islam Grotto Forms New Bowling League
